SENATE HALTS FILIBUSTER TO VOTE AID TODAY

Thomas Talks Five Hours Against Fund Item for Indians.

M'KELLAR ASSAILS HOOVER ON RELIEF

Comfortable Majority for $20,000,000 Provision Viewed as Assured.

(Associated Press.)

An eight-hour filibuster ended in the Senate last night with an agreement to vote at 2 o'clock today on the $20,000,000 drought loan compromise.

A substantial majority was predicted for the compromise in the relief dispute as the fifth day of debate concluded.

The hour for a vote was set at 7 o'clock, after a filibuster by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, against the Department of the Interior appropriation bill carrying the relief compromise had collapsed because of the senator's exhaustion.

Dispels Extra Session Fear.

The unanimous consent given by the Senate then for fixing an hour to vote dispelled fears of the leaders that a move was in full swing to force an extra session of the new Congress after March 4.

Senator Thomas, while speaking at length against the Interior bill, said later he was not filibustering to force an extra session of Congress. He and Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, waged an all-day attack against failure of the supply bill to retain some provisions relating to Indian funds, which the Senate had approved.

Senator Thomas has pending a motion to recommit the conference report adjusting differences between the Senate and House on the Interior bill.

Rejection of this motion and subsequent approval of the report is expected by Senate leaders. Approval would put the drought relief compromise up to the House, where the Republican leaders already have expressed their willingness to accept it.

Decide to Vote.

With the threat of an extra session looming, Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, one of the severest critics of the drought compromise, interrupted the debate last night to suggest an hour for a vote.

He yielded to Democratic Leader Robinson, who put the proposal. It was promptly accepted by the weary Senate, almost without discussion. With this agreement, Republican leaders yielded in their determination to force a night session and adjournment was quickly taken.

Debate today is expected to veer back to the drought loan compromise with Senator Borah, Idaho, a leader of the Republican independents, and Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, prepared to discuss it.

Senator McKellar, after an attack on the administration's relief program and a condemnation of the loan agreement, announced he would support it for lack of anything else.

McKellar Scores Hoover.

McKellar referred to Mr. Hoover as an "ill-disposed and groveling-to-the-rich President." He said he had undertaken an "un-Republican, un-Democratic and un-American Government that protects the farmers' cattle, but does nothing to protect the people themselves from hunger and starvation."

Thomas took the floor at the opening of the session, with the avowed purpose of speaking as long as "human endurance" would permit.

He began at 11 o'clock and gave up just before 4 o'clock. When Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, asked the Senate to carry the session into the night, Thomas called on Smoot to remain in his seat and hear him. Smoot accepted and ate his lunch at his desk.

Wheeler Helps Along.

After Thomas had spoken for more than two hours, Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, interrupted

Thompson Is Egged And Hooted as Tool

Chicago Mayor's Effort to Prove He's Free Causes Bedlam.

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Three eggs aimed at Mayor William Hale Thompson missed their mark at a Loop campaign meeting today, but turned the gathering into bedlam.

It took a phalanx of policemen to rescue the egg-thrower as indignant members of the audience pounced on him.

"Big Bill," campaigning for renomination on the Republican ticket, stood on the stage of a theater, shaking a halter to illustrate that he "wears no man's halter" around his neck.

"Oh, yes, you do!" shouted a man in the audience.

"You wear the hoodlum's halter."

The auditor let fly the eggs. One splattered on the outstretched halter. Another smashed on the stage. A third struck a woman spectator squarely in the face.

As his neighbors pounced upon the egg-thrower, police seized him and carried him out through a rear entrance, where he was released. The meeting continued.

In another theater, Judge John H. Lyle, one of the mayor's opponents, was heckled as he spoke against gangsters and politico-criminal alliances.

The audience, like Thompson's, prepared to make reprisals, but Judge Lyle interrupted with "Let me handle this fellow."

"Listen to me," he said, as he pointed in the direction of the heckler, "nobody but a criminal, an extortionist, a blackmailer or a gangster would defend these people." The heckler left.

PARLEY TO SETTLE BRADY CASE COURSE

Prosecutors to Discuss His Murder Indictment at Annapolis Today.

CHARGES NOT DROPPED

The charge against Herman Brady has not been dropped, and action on the charge will be determined upon in a conference at Annapolis today, Alan Bowie, prosecuting attorney of Prince Georges County, said yesterday.

Leroy Brady, named with Herman in an indictment for the murder of Leroy's bride, was convicted of second-degree murder last week and probably will be sentenced today. His sentencing is likely to depend on the action of the prosecution in Herman's case, Judge Robert Moss having said he would not sentence Leroy until after Herman's trial.

Mr. Bowie, prosecutor in the county where the crime was committed, and J. Wilson Ryon, special prosecutor in the case, denied a nolle prosse had been entered for Herman Brady. Prosecution attorneys, including A. Theodore Brady, Anne Arundel prosecutor, will confer in the courthouse at Annapolis this morning. They will weigh their evidence against Herman and then adopt a course. Prosecutor Brady has been quoted as saying that the charge would be dismissed.

The charges against the two brothers arose out of the explosion of a bomb in the home of John Hall at Seat Pleasant, Md., on New Year's Day, 1930. Herman Brady's young wife, Naomi Hall Brady, and two others of her family were killed.

The pair got a change of venue to Montgomery County. There Leroy was tried, but the jury failed to arrive at a verdict. The case was moved to Annapolis and Leroy was convicted. A motion for a new trial was overruled.

Brazil's Ambassador Transferred to Japan

(Associated Press.)

It was announced yesterday at the Brazilian Embassy that Ambassador S. Gugel do Amaral is leaving the post here to represent his country in Japan.

No notice has been received of his successor, nor concerning the coming of R. de Lima e Silvo, present Brazilian Ambassador to Mexico, to Washington, as related in press dispatches from Mexico City. The date of Ambassador Do Amaral's departure was not disclosed.

NUTT SCORES BLAINE AS LOOSE-TONGUED

G.O.P. Treasurer Dubs False Hint That Postal Lessors Gave $1,250,000.

ONE $200 GIFT RETURNED

(Associated Press.)

The intimation by Senator Blaine that postoffice lessors had contributed $1,250,000 to the Coolidge and Hoover campaigns was described yesterday by Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, as "utterly false and entirely inexcusable."

In a statement through the Republican national committee Mr. Nutt asserted the intimation by the chairman of the Senate postoffice lease investigating committee was "just another instance of a loose-tongued senator making statements which are false."

The facts are, Mr. Nutt said, that only one contribution—$200—had been received while he had been treasurer of the national committee. He said that was from J. A. Love, of St. Louis, and had been returned to the Missouri Republican State committee.

Mr. Nutt said complete statements showing every contribution of $1 or more since he had been treasurer were on file at the Capitol and open to the public.

"Considering that the charges, fathered by Senator Blaine, contain not a shadow of truth," he went on, "I presume that he did not avail himself of these records. Such an omission was inexcusable."

Meanwhile, Senator Blaine announced he would produce evidence of large political contributions by postoffice lessors "at the proper time." He was replying to a statement Thursday night by Postmaster General Brown that the lessors had contributed only $500 since 1924.

Mr. Nutt's statement follows:

"As treasurer of the Republican national committee, I take serious exception to a defamatory statement broadcast through the press of the country that postoffice lessors contributed a million and a quarter dollars to the Coolidge and Hoover campaigns. This charge is utterly false and entirely inexcusable.

"Authority for this statement is attributed to Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin. At a recent public hearing the senator inquired of Gov. Bartlett, former First Assistant Postmaster General: 'Would you be surprised to learn that the beneficiaries under postoffice leases had contributed something like a million and a quar-

U.S. SETS DATE FOR TROOPS TO QUIT NICARAGUA

Gradual Withdrawal Is to Begin Next June Under Plan.

LAST MARINE GROUP TO SAIL LATE IN 1932

Natives to Be Trained Prior to Departure; Senate Hears Scheme Hit.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Unless something unforeseen happens, all American Marines will be out of Nicaragua by the latter part of 1932, it was announced yesterday at the State Department.

By next June, it was stated, the Marine force will be reduced to 500 men. Meanwhile the Nicaraguan National Guard is to be increased by 500 men so that it will be able better to maintain order in the bandit areas.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, declared that Secretary Stimson's policy did not go half far enough, and he announced that he would offer an amendment to the naval appropriation bill to forbid the expenditure of any more money on the Marine force in Nicaragua.

Declared Improper Invasion.

"Mr. Stimson says he will keep 500 Marines in Nicaragua until after the next election," Senator King said. "Of course, I say right now that they will find a pretext then to keep them there longer. The maintenance of an American force in Nicaragua has been and remains a highly improper invasion of its rights. It has aroused resentment and fear in Latin-American countries. There has been no excuse for the presence of the Marines. The country belongs to the Nicaraguans and they should accept responsibility of keeping peace."

An amendment such as Senator King plans to offer in the Senate was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Ayers (Democrat), of Kansas, while the naval appropriations bill was under consideration in that body. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 103 to 83.

Representative Ayers then moved to have the appropriations bill sent back to committee. This was voted down, 191 to 133.

American Marines have been in Nicaragua on and off now for 21 years, having been first sent down there after the revolution of 1910 which routed Jose Zelaya from the presidency. A period of violence followed, and sailors and Marines were ordered to the scene to protect American lives and property.

Many Killed or Wounded.

The last time that the Marines were withdrawn was in August, 1925. Within three weeks Emiliano Chamorro executed a coup d'etat, seized the liberal cabinet officers at a banquet, drove President Solorzano and Vice President Sacasa from the republic, and took over the government himself. Another revolution followed, and ultimately the United States again sent Marines down there to protect American lives and property.

Since 1927, 39 Marines have been killed in action in Nicaragua or have died as a result of wounds received in action, while 59 have received wounds from which they recovered.

Former President Coolidge sent Henry L. Stimson to Nicaragua, and the latter persuaded the Diaz and Moncado factions to lay down their arms. For its part the United States agreed to supervise the 1928 elections and to assist in training a Nicaraguan National Guard.

Reached Peak in 1928.

Meanwhile, the bandit general, Sandino, went on the war path, and,

BILL FOR NAVY GETS APPROVAL IN HOUSE VOTE

$348,830,000 Measure for Supplies Sent to Senate.

CLAUSE FOR FASTER PLANES IS APPROVED

Amendment to Construct Four Destroyers Meets Defeat in Vote.

(Associated Press.)

Clearing its deck of all the big regular appropriation bills, the House yesterday passed the $348,830,000 supply bill for the naval establishment and sent it to the Senate.

Action came without a dissenting vote after an unsuccessful effort was made to send the bill back to the appropriations committee for insertion of a provision to demand the withdrawal of Marines from Nicaragua. The motion to recommit the measure by Representative Ayres (Democrat), Kansas, lost, 191 to 133.

Increased from $344,342,000 by the House, it now carries amendments providing funds for experimenting with high speed airplanes, scrapping two battle ships decommissioned under the London naval treaty and for construction at shore stations.

Personnel Restrictions Removed.

Backing up recommendations of the Navy Department, the House overrode its appropriations committee and dispensed with limitations proposed on officer personnel. By removing a limit of 5,499 line officers, the House provided for commissions for the 1931 graduating class of the Naval Academy. It also struck out the provision to restrict the number of high ranking officers in the bureau of aeronautics.

Two World War aviators, Representatives LaGuardia, of New York, and Maas, of Minnesota, succeeded in having adopted an amendment carrying $220,000 for experimentation with high speed airplanes.

They declared that within two years British service planes would exceed in speed those of the American Army and Navy 50 miles an hour unless faster planes were developed in this country. It would be fatal, they said, for slow planes to engage fast ones in combat. This increased the naval aviation allotment to $31,070,000.

Target Ship Provided.

The sum of $779,000 was inserted to convert the battleship Wyoming into a training vessel and the Utah into a radio controlled target ship, while $3,379,000 was allowed for shore construction and $110,000 was added to the subsistence fund of the Marines. No projects were named in the construction amendment.

An amendment by Representative Black (Democrat), New York, to appropriate $4,500,000 to construct four destroyers authorized in 1916 was defeated. In offering it, the New Yorker assailed Representative French (Republican), Idaho, in charge of the bill, as an "inland congressman" who "does more to discourage our Navy men, to lessen our naval strength, than all the conferences we have ever had."

The measure, as finally passed, is $32,000,000 less than was appropriated for the current year for the Navy.

Dry Law for England Rapped by Lady Astor

Calls Lords 'Beerage' As Prohibition Bill Is Defeated.

London, Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The expreince of the United States under the dry laws was cited by both sides in the House of Commons here today when second reading of a prohibition bill introduced by Edwin Scrymgeour, dry member of Paliament from Dundee, was rejected by 137 votes to 18.

The House took so little interest in the debate, aside from the opportunities for merriment that it provided, that at one time there were only a dozen members in their seats and debate was halted while enough were brought back to make a quarum.

Mr. Schrymegeour, the only member of Paliament elected on a prohibition ticket, sponsored a similar bill eight years ago, which the House of Commons threw out by a vote of 236 to 14.

Viscountess Astor, the Virginia-born former Nancy Langhorne, though an ardent temperance advocate, opposed Scrymgeour's bill, saying:

"I can not vote for the bill. I must do what I think is right. If I voted for prohibition I would not be doing what I think is right.

"I believe in a different method. I think we ought, first of all, to have

Mellon Declares Program Threat to National Finance Plan.

HOUSE BODY DIVIDES IN VOTE UPON ISSUE

Longworth Supports Bill in Face of Attack; Thinks Victory Sure.

(Associated Press.)

The influence of the administration last night was thrown against the proposal to pay war veterans 80 per cent of the face value of their adjusted compensaion certificates.

In a letter to Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee, Secretary Mellon estimated the cost of the proposal at from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 and asserted the money could not be raised, without seriously interfering with the Government's financial program.

Earlier in the day the ways and means committee reported the measure to the House with seventeen of its members recorded for the proposal and four against. Its sponsors planned to call it up Monday for House action and they expected it to pass.

Speaker for Bill.

Before the Mellon statement was issued, Speaker Longworth told newspapermen he thought the bill was a "sane, sensible and sound" measure and that he was for it regardless of the stand of the administration.

"I don't believe it is possible to change my attitude," he added.

The four committee members who voted against the measure said they wanted to ascertain how the money would be raised.

Mellon asserted he could not "too urgently recommend that this measure should have reconsideration, in order that it should be placed upon a basis which will not damage our whole financial syatem."

Appropriation Held Need.

He added the proposal called for a potential liability of $1,720,000,000, as the face value of the certificates is $3,440,000,000.

"This would indicate," he said, "that unless Congress is prepared to incur an obligation without providing means of meeting it, an appropriation of approximately $1,000,000,000 is necessary."

The four ways and means committee members—Chairman Hawley and Representatives Ramseyer, of Iowa; Treadway, of Massachusetts, and Chindblom, of Illinois, all Republicans—voted against a favorable report on the measure, which was presented yesterday to the House

17 Vote for Bill.

However, seventeen committee members were registered for the bill, which will be brought up in the House Monday under suspension of rules, which prohibits amendments and limits debate.

The vote was contrary to the unanimous agreement announced Thursday by Chairman Hawley. Explaining the position he and his colleagues had taken, Mr. Hawley said they wanted "time for further investigation, to see whether additional legislation will be required to raise revenue to meet the larger loans."

"I think that all of us had in mind that the legislation was completed last night, on information we haven't had time to thoroughly digest," he added. "It has the appearance that it may necessitate issuing securities by the Treasury. We want to determine the effect on the Treasury and whether further issues will be necessary."

Loan Privilege Increased.

As submitted to the House, the measure increases the loan privilege from 22½ to 50 per cent and reduces interest to 4½ per cent, making a gross loan value of $1,711,000,000 for the 3,500,000 veterans. It is estimated, however, that only about $700,000,000 will be necessary to meet loan requests expected from 60 per cent of the veterans.

Its supporters maintain additional financing would be unnecessary. The

RETAILERS CHARGE BREAD OPPRESSION

STORE HEAD COMPLAINS

Giant baking corporations hold Washington retailers and consumers at their mercy, and combinations in the dairy business have almost achieved the same power, the Capper food-price investigating committee of the Senate was told yesterday by W. M. Hornstein, president of the United Food Stores of Washington.

There are a number of independent bakeries in Washington, Mr. Hornstein said, but their owners were afraid to do anything to reduce prices for fear of a price war in the course of which they would be crushed by the superior financial resources of the nationally powerful baking companies.

His organization, he said, was a group of independent grocers who bought many of their commodities together to get price advantages. Bond bread, made by the General Baking Co., was bought for 8 cents a loaf and sold for 10 cents, although the bread of other bakers was purchased for 8 and sold for 9 cents, Mr. Hornstein said.

He had not been told what would happen if he didn't sell the Bond bread at 10 cents as he was told to, Mr. Hornstein said, but there was no doubt but that any store violating orders would be cut off from further supplies from the General Baking Co.

The same thing that is true in the bread business in Washington today will also be true, Mr. Hornstein said, if the local owners of the Thompson Dairy sell out to one of the large dairy combines.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee, said he was convinced that bread prices are too high in Washington and throughout the country as a whole.

Bread, the senator said, is the one important commodity which has not responded to the general economic trend of the last year or so.

BERENGUER CABINET WILL RESIGN TODAY

Liberal Monarchist Leaders Reverse Support of Election Program.

KING TO HAVE FREE HAND

Madrid, Saturday, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Count Romanones, Liberal monarchist leader, announced after a midnight interview with Premier Damaso Berenguer the premier had told him his cabinet would resign today in view of the grave situation of Spain both economically and politically.

Count Romanones said he had told the premier he and the Marquis of Alhucemas, another powerful Liberal leader, would participate in the March elections solely that they might ask the dissolution of Parliament and the convocation of a constitutional convention.

The Liberal monarchists have hitherto supported the government's election program and the decision of the two leaders represented a complete change in attitude.

The expected resignation of the ministry, Count Romanones said, would give King Alfonso a free hand to call a concentration cabinet of the leaders of all the monarchist parties.

This cabinet would be given full powers to arrange for a constitutional convention to make whatever changes might be deemed necessary in the constitution of 1876, which was suspended by the dictatorship of Primo de Rivera.

Political circles held it a possibility that General Berenguer might be asked to preside over the new ministry.

Rumors that the Berenguer government was contemplating resignation have been current in Spain ever since the abortive revolutionary attempts of last December and have been more insistent recently as the campaign for the forthcoming elections gathered headway.

The failure of many political groups to name candidates for the elections was said to have greatly disappointed the premier, who, however, insisted the balloting would be held as scheduled "even though an earthquake shakes the country."

Attacks against the government and

Calvin Coolidge Says:

A new social force is being developed by radio waves. The address of the Pope was given wider broadcasting than any other ever delivered, reaching almost all over the world. The morning papers carry radio photographs of Marconi in Rome preparing for its transmission. Report comes simultaneously of a successful experiment in television by which people in Leipzig were able to recognize the image of a man in Schenectady. The time may not be far away when it will be possible to have a receiving set in the home that will produce a sound motion picture. Central stations may be able to receive and broadcast to the eye and ear events taking place all over the world.

It is difficult to comprehend what an enormous power this would be. New forces are constantly being created for good or for evil. When primitive people come in contact with civilization usually they use its powers for their own destruction. Unless the moral power of the world increases in proportion to its scientific power there is a real danger that the new inventions will prove instruments of our own destruction. If moral development keeps step peace and good will have gained new allies.

Birth Control Is Argued As Cure for Social Evils

Mrs. Sanger, Clergymen, Doctors, Social Workers Among Those Supporting Gillett Bill Permitting Dissemination of Information on Subject.

(Associated Press.)

Doctors, clergymen, professors and social workers packed a Senate committee room to the doors yesterday, to urge passage of the Gillett bill to authorize dissemination of birth control information by physicians, hospitals, clinics and medical schools.

Opponents of the measure will be heard tomorrow.

The present law, passed in 1873, prohibiting circulation of contraceptive information, was variously termed "unfair," "unjust," "unscientific" and "obnoxious" by the eight spokesmen for the group, which included Mrs. Margaret Sanger, celebrated birth control crusader.

The witnesses held the 58-year-old law responsible, in large measure, for current social ills, including poverty, crime, unemployment and war.

A huge bootleg trade in "contraceptive devices and information" was described by Dr. J. Whitridge Williams, professor of obstetrics at Johns Hopkins University since 1909. He also said Federal and State laws on the subject conflicted to some extent.

In Maryland, he explained, the law permits a physician to give contra-

Taxi Driver, Skull Broken, Treated for Cut and Jailed

Man Found Slumped Over Steering Wheel Booked at Police Station as Drunk; Claims Passenger Struck and Robbed Him; Hurts Critical.

Hillery Cornell Carey, a taxi driver, lay on a bed in Emergency Hospital last night in a critical condition with a fracture of the skull—a fracture which was discovered only on his second trip to the hospital and after he had been booked on a charge of drunkenness at the Third Precinct Station.

Policeman W. V. Christian and W. H. Banning, cruising in their scout car, found the 36-year-old hackman slumped over the wheel of his cab on M street near New Hampshire avenue early yesterday morning. He was in semiconscious condition. Blood was trickling down his neck.

Taken to Emergency Hospital, Carey did not receive medical treatment because Dr. Eastlack, the only available surgeon, was busy with another case and the policemen did not wait but hustled their man off to the station to be booked, according to C. J. Stoddard, night superintendent at the institution.

The driver was charged with drunkenness and locked up for several hours, obtaining his release when collateral was furnished. On leaving his cell, Carey complained of feeling proposal provides that loans may be made from the $772,000,000 sinking fund and from the remaining $50,000,000 Government insurance fund.

Advocates of the proposal interpreted the action of the four committee members to the influence of the administration, which has opposed all propositions to pay cash on service certificates.

Sees Danger in Plan.

In a statement, Mr. Ramseyer said the bill placed a possible burden of $1,400,000,000 on the Treasury, in the face of an estimated deficit of $500,000,000 on June 30.

"I have no objection to an increase in loan value of the adjusted compensation certificates to the former service men who want or need such loans," he said, adding, however, it was the duty of Congress to raise the money either by increased taxes or by issuing bonds.

"The failure of Congress to do its full duty in this regard," the Iowan said, "will do the former service men, in common with the rest of the people, in the course of the new few years, more harm than good."

Consider Pension Plan.

On the other hand the initiator of the compromise plan, Representative Bacharach (Republican), New Jersey, said a bond issue "possitively would not be necessary."

Republican Leader Tilson said he was "reserving judgment for further study," particularly of fiscal angles.

Meanwhile the House veterans' committee considered the Johnson bill to allow widows of World War veterans a pension of $20 a month and the children $6 a month.

Approval of the measure was blocked after Veterans' Administrator Hines urged delay until next session. He said he would then submit a complete study of all phases of the subject, with a view to preventing "veterans legislation from coming up at every session."

Needs More Consideration.

Hines estimated the widows and orphans pension would cost $215,937,000 over a period of five years.

"This is such an important problem that it should have more consideration than can be given here now," he added. "We still have on the rolls ten widows of the War of 1812. The Treasury has been under a terrific strain this year. I feel that in view of these things, consideration should be deferred until the next session."

Hines said his agency was making a study that would make possible "a national policy" on veterans' aid.

Huge Total Seen.

"I personally am supervising it," he said. "We hope to review the whole question and report to Congress next December. It will be made with a view of presenting Congress the facts so a policy can be adopted to eliminate the inequalities, and set a course for veterans' legislation."

"Ultimately the cost of these pending proposals will be somewhere around $12,000,000,000," said Representative Luce (Republican), Massachusetts. "The total cost of the World War was $26,000,000,000. I want to bring out the great seriousness of what we are considering."

Luce asked Hines how much Government insurance now being paid more than 600,000 World War widows was costing.

"We have a liability of $1,400,000,000," Hines replied.

GARNER PROPOSES OIL PROBE BY U. S.

CURB ON IMPORTS LOOMS

(Associated Press.)

A congressional investigation of the oil industry was proposed yesterday before the House ways and means committee as it opened hearings on proposals to restrict oil importations.

The suggestion came from Democratic Leader Garner, who asked independent oil producers appearing before the committee if "an investigation to find out why the cost of gasoline does not respond to the cost of crude oil would not be of benefit to the country."

Russell B. Brown, secretary of the Governors' Oil Relief Conference, indorsed the suggestion. Mr. Brown distinguished between the independent and large oil companies which both produce and import. The largest, he said, are the Dutch Shell, controled by British interests; the Standards of New Jersey and Indiana, controled by the Rockefeller interests, and the Gulf, controled by the Mellon interests.

Brown and other independent operators indorsed the Capper-Garber bill to limit entries during the next three years to 16,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum annually. Garner declined to say whether he will introduce a resolution directing an oil price investigation.

Labor Leaders Appear.

Joining Brown in favor of the Capper-Garber bill were Edward F. McGrady, of the American Federation of Labor; M. J. Flynn, of the American Wage Earners Protective Conference; H. C. Fremming, of the International Association of Oil Field and Gas Workers; President John Simpson, of the National Farmers Union, and W. C. Franklin, of the Midcontinental Oil and Gas Association.

Garner advised the independents to center their efforts on an embargo bill rather than to attempt to obtain tariff protection at this session.

Chairman Hawley announced that when the oil men have finished presenting their case some time next week, the committe will begin on the Burtness bill for a 12-month embargo on wheat, feed grains and butter. The Burtness measure has been approved by Chairman Legge.

"I think because of the political complexion of the House and Senate it would be impossible to pass a tariff bill at this time," Garner said at the opening of the hearing on the Capper-Garner bill.

Independent Dealers Firm.

Representative Garber (Republican), Oklahoma, immediately announced that all the Independents were united in their support of this measure. Garner said that from evidence supplied him there was cause for congressional action.

Garber devoted a large portion of his testimony to answering reports that an oil embargo would violate treaty obligations. The Oklahoman read a letter from Acting Secretary of State Carr saying the 1928 agreement for abolishing embargo restrictions was signed by the United States, Great Britain, Denmark, Japan, Norway, Netherlands and Portugal.

"The importations of crude petroleum and its refined products are not coming from any country or colony obligated to the provisions of the treaty," he said.

"There could be no clearer presentation of the situation which makes imperative passage of the Capper bill to save the independent oil industry from complete disintegration than the report just made public by the tariff commission, which finds that the cost of Venezuelan oil delivered on the Atlantic seaboard is 79 cents a barrel, while the cost of midcontinent oil at the same port is $1.98 a barrel," Brown said.

French Senate to Try Two Former Officials

Paris, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Former Minister of Justice Raoul Peret and Rene Besnard, former ambassador to Italy, today were ordered to appear before the Senate, sitting as a high court, to answer charges of malfeasance in office.

The order was issued by the Senate committee investigating the Oustric Bank scandal. No date for the trial was fixed.

ill and was returned to Emergency Hospital. Noting blood tricking from the man's ears, Dr. Bradley examined his skull and discovered the fracture.

When his memory returned, Carey told police that two Negroes hired his cab at Twenty-fifth and K streets northwest about 2:30 a. m. and told him to drive straight out K street. A few minutes later one of the men struck him over the head, he said. He lapsed into unconsciousness and the next he knew he was in the Third Precinct station cell.

He said he was robbed of $9 in cash, a $40 watch and a peajacket.

Interviewed by a Post reporter last night, Policeman Christian said he could not say whether or not Carey received surgical treatment the first time, adding that he saw "intoxication" marked on the form card after the victim left the emergency room. The policeman did not accompany the driver into that room, he said.

Mr. Stoddard said that a cut on the ear was the only diagnosis entered on the card.

Carey, who drives for one of the better known companies, said his address is Fifth street northwest near E.

the monarchy, suppressed to a certain extent under the rigid censorship imposed last December, were renewed when, on February 9, the censorship was lifted and a constitutional regime reestablished for the first time since Gen. Primo de Rivera became dictator in 1923.

The press generally criticised the cabinet, and there were many predictions it would be forced from office and the call for the cortes cancelled.

Count Romanones, who announced the imminent resignation of the cabinet, was a bitter opponent of the dictatorship and recently had been active in the campaign for the calling of a constitutional convention.

Some reports from Madrid last week said King Alfonso and Premier Berenguer had differed over the call for elections to the cortes, but on February 7 the king signed the necessary decree and the hands of the cabinet were considered strengthened by this action.

Service by Clinic Shows Increase

Women's Board Is Elected at Columbia Hospital for Women.

More than 2,000 new patients were registered at the prenatal clinic of the Columbia Hospital for Women during 1930, it was reported yesterday at the annual meeting of the women's board of the hospital. This was the largest number of patients ever registered at the clinic, it was said.

During the past year there were approximately 8,815 visits to the clinic, it was reported. There was an increase of 95 new white patients over the previous year.

Mrs. J. Spalding Flannery was elected president of the women's board; Mrs. John Gulick, first vice president; Mrs. Sydney S. Taliaferro, second vice president; Mrs. George Hewitt Myers, third vice president; Mrs. Herbert B. Crosby, fourth vice president; Mrs. Paul Fleaman, recording secretary; Mme de Sieyes, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Robert V. Fleming, treasurer.

Bill Increasing Building Program Is Sent Hoover

(Associated Press).

The Elliott bill to increase the public building program by $100,000,000 was sent to President Hoover yesterday after the House accepted the conference report alerady agreed to by the Senate.

The measure raises the public building program outside the District of Columbia to $415,000,000, exclusive of $50,000,000 to be obtained from the sale of obsolescent buildings. It would permit the Treasury Department to go forward with approximately 200 projects, none of which is specified.

TROOPS IN NICARAGUA SOON TO BE RECALLED

with a small army, engaged the Marines in several sharp encounters.

The Marine force in Nicaragua reached its peak strength in July, 1928, a few months before the election of Gen. Moncado, the liberal leader, as president. At that time, there were 5,332 Marine officers and men in the republic. Today, however, this number has been reduced to 1,410 officers and men.

Under the plan outlined yesterday by Secretary of State Stimson, this force will be reduced to about 500 officers and men by next June. After the election of November, 1932, it is proposed to withdraw all Marines that are left.

Withdrawal Plan Mapped.

The plan for withdrawal of the Marines was worked out at a recent conference participated in by Secretary Stimson, Matthew Hanna, the American Minister to Nicaragua; Col. Douglas C. McDougal, of the Marine Corps, who has been in command of the Nicaraguan National Guard, and Maj. Gen. Frank McCoy, of the Marine Corps, who supervised the Nicaraguan elections in 1928. President Moncada, it was stated, agreed to the plan.

"Under this plan," the State Department announcement said, "the Nicaraguan National Guard is to be increased by approximately 500 men, to be used exclusively in the bandit area, and the necessary financial arrangements for this increase of force have been made by the Nicaraguan government.

"By this increase of the Nicaraguan National Guard it will be possible to withdraw from Nicaragua all of the Marine brigade now on combatant duty probably by June next, leaving in Nicaragua only the Marines who are still engaged in instruction in the Nicaraguan National Guard and an instruction battalion to support such instruction and an aviation section, which is being used for the present to carry supplies in the bandit provinces which are entirely without roads.

To Be Completely Replaced.

"This means that by June next the total force of Marines in Nicaragua will have been reduced from over 5,000 men, which was the size of the force in January, 1929, to probably not over 500 men. The Nicaraguan government by this arrangement also has secured funds to increase the school in which Nicaraguan officers are now being trained to completely replace the Marines now officering the National Guard.

"In addition to this, the Nicaraguan government has obtained further funds which it has agreed to spend in the construction of long needed roads and trails in the bandit provinces. These roads will greatly facilitate the future work of its National Guard in that area and make it much more effective and protective to the surrounding country.

"The Department feels that the foregoing steps will greatly expedite the completion of the task of this Government in instructing the National Guard of Nicaragua, and that they have paved the way for the ultimate removal of all the Marine forces from Nicaragua immediately after the elections of 1932."

President of Nicaragua Lauds Decision of U. S.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 13 (A.P.). The decision to retire American Marines from Nicaragua is an "eloquent demonstration that the United States came to Nicaragua only to help it solve grave problems," President Jose Moncada said in a statement to the Associated Press tonight.

The President added he had always declared this to be the case and he was therefore "disposed to render due honor to the sincerity and justice with which the United States Government has proceeded."

With the retirement of the Marines, he said, he would increase the strength of the National Guard so that "it will give prestige to this Nation as well as to the United States Marine officers who have come here with such good will to form it."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THEY'LL NONE OF 'EM BE MISSED.
(With apologies to W. S. Gilbert.)

I.

As some day it may happen that a victim must be found,
I've got a little list—I've got a little list
Of present era nitwits who might well be under ground,
And who never would be missed—who never would be missed!
There's the pestilential nuisances who talk in charts and graphs—
The brokers' clerks with market jokes and irritating laughs—
All business men who loudly shout for keeping wages high
And then discharge a flock of men with just a pious sigh—
And all those persons who on spotting Russian plots insist—
They'd none of 'em be missed! They'd none of 'em be missed!

II.

There's the radio announcer with the artificial way,
And the lecturer on whist—I've got him on the list!
And the "I's regusted" fellow who says "Oh-ho" all the day—
They never would be missed! They never would be missed!
There's the idiot who broadcasts free advice about finance,
Though he hasn't got a nickel and a nail holds up his pants—
And the man who brings the ball game to the millions through the air Without telling what the score is or who's playing who and where—
And that most amusing expert called the market analyst—
I don't think he'd be missed! I don't think he'd be missed!

III.

There's the man who writes the movies that the showmen think such fun,
The talking picture humorist—I've got him on the list!
The socalled "presentations" that bring sleep to any one—
They'd none of 'em be missed! They'd none of 'em be missed!
And the hoity-toity ushers in the uniforms so neat,
Who will render every service except finding you a seat—
And the man who draws those animated pictures for the screen
That are never very funny and are always quite obscene—
And Benito in the news reel with his very warlike fist—
They never would be missed! They never would be missed!

IV.

There's the golfer who gets ninety but who talks an eighty-two—
I've got him on the list! I've got him on the list!
And the duffer who will never let the other fellow through—
He never would be missed! He never would be missed!
There's the man who plays backgammon and who wants to teach you how—
The life of ev'ry party who admits he is a wow—
The life insurance agent who talks death when you're alive
And asks, "Have you thought where you'll be when you are sixty-five?"—
But it really doesn't matter whom you put upon the list,
For they'd none of 'em be missed! They'd none of 'em be missed!

V.

There's the pessimist who bellows that the nation's gone to pot—
I've got him on the list! I've got him on the list!
And the gunman loud and yellow who puts victims on the spot—
He never would be missed! He never would be missed!
There's the crooked court official who lets gangsters go their way
If they have sufficient money and are satisfied to pay—
There's the lawyer who thinks "ethics" is a type of motor car
And who must have had a double when admitted to the bar—
And, oh, I almost overlooked that pest the columnist—
I don't think he'd be missed! I KNOW he'd not be missed!

Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Columbia have rejected $100,000 bequests from a rich man's estate, the sum to be applied for "the development of the sound public opinion that woman's place is in the home."

This amounts to serving notice that these universities will also refuse to do anything toward development of the sound public opinion that magic lantern slides are the only fit entertainment for the young, and that what America needs more than anything else is a revival of the buggy-striping industry.

New Needs Arise Daily

A new home today, a new car tomorrow, a new wardrobe the next day and new furniture the next . . . but these purchases are not scheduled in orderly procession—they await the evident need.

YOU Can't Pick the Day When People Will Want What You Have for Sale

Some families will decide that it is time to buy when they see an advertisement on Wednesday, but an equal number will make a like decision on Thursday. Advertising that meets a need on the day that it becomes evident is the most productive advertising, and, at remarkable small cost, any merchant or individual can place his sales message before "the people who WANT to buy on the day that they decide to act." This means a daily schedule of insertions in the NEW Post—

Classified Section

Improved methods of classification, arrangement and A-B-C order of indexing make these columns more convenient and interesting to the reader and consequently of greater value to the advertiser . . . In no other medium, or combination of mediums, can you reach the thousands of exclusive readers of The Washington Post—an audience that is unusually responsive because Post readers are distinguished by their "ability to buy."

Order Your Advertising For Consecutive Insertions

If you skip a day you are overlooking the scores who may be looking for your particular product or service on the day omitted. Advertising is not an expense—it is an investment that brings the required dividends more quickly and at less cost than any other method you might use to acquaint people with what you have for sale—an investment that will bring results EVERY day . . . There is also a very worth-while reduction in the cost of advertisements running on consecutive dates. For full information

Silk Concern Sued Over Trade Mark

Celanese Company Asks Accounting to Determine Damages.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 13.—Unfair competition and infringement of trade-mark rights, valued at $2,000,000, is ascribed to the Great Northern Silk Co., Inc., in a suit filed in the United States District Court at New York by the Celanese Corporation of America, which has a plant here.

Damages are estimated at $100,000. An accounting to estimate the amount of damages, if any, to which the plaintiff may be entitled, is demanded, inasmuch as there is no provision under the statutes for bringing an action for specific damages. The Celanese Corporation also demands injunctive relief.

The complaint says the defendant corporation acquired the American rights to use the trade-mark "Celanese" from British Celanese, Ltd., by assignment in 1924, for use "on threads made wholly or principally from cellulose derivatives." Six weeks later it was registered to apply also to fabrics of the same description.

RELIEF GROUP FINDS 60 JOBS IN COUNTY

Vacancies Are Available to Qualified Men in Prince Georges.

50 ARE FOR LABORERS

More than three score jobs are open for laborers and skilled workmen in Prince Georges County, according to a survey made by the relief committee of the county Red Cross.

Fifty of the jobs are for laborers on the United States Dairy Farm at Beltsville. Thomas W. Mosley, superintendent of the farm, has offered the places at a wage of $3 a day for four months.

Approximately fifteen more jobs are open in other parts of the county. These pay 40 cents an hour and will last an indefinite time. The call is for steamfitters, painters, carpenters and other skilled workmen.

Those seeking the jobs are required to file applications with H. L. Leonard, chairman of the relief committee. The applicants will be investigated as to their worthiness before the jobs are given. Only residents of the county are eligible.

Mr. Leonard warned that a fake solicitor, claiming to be collecting for the Red Cross, is at work in the county. He advised all persons to require credentials of solicitors they did not know.

Five inmates of the House of Reformation at Cheltenham escaped yesterday while working in the fields. One of them escaped a few weeks ago and was recaptured. All are colored.

They are Leonard Fisher, Lester Pea, Charles H. Ford, Lester Davis and James Dunnington, who was involved in the previous escape. The boys range from 16 to 18 years old.

Twelve cases were withdrawn yesterday in county police court at Marlboro, and only one conviction was made, when James Pinkney was fined $5 for assault.

Five men arrested by Game Warden James W. Rogers were released for trial in Charles County as their alleged offense was in that section. They were arrested and charged with hunting at night in the swamps along the Potomac, where boundary lines are not closely drawn.

The men are Edgar Wilstead, Mitchell Wilstead, Woodrow Wilstead, Ollie Wheeler and Peter S. Wheeler.

Seven other men, who were held following the fatal shooting of Charles Cole in Croome several weeks ago, were also released. They were Howard Sevelers, Wliman Pinkney, Owen Johnson, Earl Johnson, Bernard Johnson, Joseph Butler and Richard Pinkney.

Chief Deputy Tom Garrison charged them with assault and battery. After an investigation William Butler was charged with the murder, while officials said there was not sufficient evidence to bring the others to trial.

Seat Pleasant led the schools of the county in attedance during January, it was announced yesterday by Miss Katharine Shears, attendance officer. This school maintained an average of 98.4 per cent and was highest in its class.

Takoma Park led the graded schools, with a 96.5 per cent average, while Glenn Dale was first among the two-teacher schools, with 96.5. Oxon Hill, with an average of 96.3 per cent, took the honors in the high school group, and Mount Rainier was highest in the junior highs, with a 96 per cent average.

Among the colored schools, Glenn Dale and Duckettsville were tied for first place, each having a 96 per cent average. Averages were generally lower last month, due to the large amount of sickness in the county.

Seat Pleasant will join the ranks of incorporated towns in Prince Georges County if a bill reported to be in the hands of Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer is passed at this session of the legislature.

The bill sets the maximum town tax rate at 35 cents and provides that the town may issue bonds for not more than $25,000 for the construction of roads, sidewalks and other improvements. The town limits would enclose four square miles, including Oakmont, Seat Pleasant Heights, Palmer's Subdivision, Godfrey's addition and a small part of Gregory's addition. The assessed value of the new town would be about $1,000,000.

Even if the bill is approved by the Legislature it must go through a formal acceptance in the town through a referendum. The committee named to hold this includes George N. Palmer, George E. Redding, James M. Arnold, H. W. Hotchkiss, W. W. Bowman and J. C. Gray. Their names are embodied in the bill.

In addition to funds derived from the bond issue, the town would also have a fund received from the county for paving improvements. The county returns 75 per cent of the road tax collected in that area to incorporated towns, and they must keep up their own streets and the county roads in the town.

Rum Pledges Hit At Honor System

University of Virginia Paper Sees Liquor Opposition Plan as Menace.

University, Va., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—An editorial in the latest issue of College Topics, student publication of the University of Virginia, asserts that attempts to enforce pledges against drinking at dances as an honor system activity threatens to destroy the honor system.

"The honor system," the editorial says, "was never meant to enforce regulations of a penal nature. Further, it was never meant to prevent acts not in themselves dishonorable. Drinking may be in violation of the university and the laws of our lands, but it is not dishonorable."

CHANGE IN NET LAW FISHERMEN'S GOAL

Petition, Drawn in Fairfax County, Asks Commissioner to Amend Act.

FOX HUNT SET FOR TODAY

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A large group of citizens interested in commercial fishing, representing Fairfax and Prince William Counties and Alexandria City, met yesterday at Pohick to discuss the law passed at the last session of the State Legislature abolishing fishing with nets in the inland waters of the State, for any kind of fish, with the exception of shad, herring and mullet.

The meeting was arranged by a group of citizens of Accotink headed by Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd. Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, presided, and introduced Judge William S. Snow, of Alexandria, a member of the State Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. Judge Snow assured the fishermen that he would do everything possible to have the present law relaxed so that nets and seines may be used during certain months of the year. The next meeting of the commission is to be held in Roanoke Monday.

Judge Snow also explained that the law covered all the inland waters of the State, and not just the bays, creeks, and streams from Hallowing Point to Washington, as was the impression prevailing in this section. The law was enacted by the State Legislature and was not an arbitrary ruling by the game commission, as many believed. It was done primarily for the protection of big mouth bass, the only game fish found in these waters, and Judge Snow stated that a few men who were violators of the law regarding the catching and sale of bass, were responsible for its enactment.

Proposed Laws Described.

Judge Snow told also of the laws proposed in Congress for the protection of bass. His belief is that the fyke net is not harmful to bass if used during certain months of the year, and told of the increased revenues the State would receive from additional license fees from hook and line fishermen, providing the inland waters were allowed to be stocked with game fish.

J. Fred Birrell, of Alexandria, delegate from that city to the State Legislature, admitted that the act as passed by the Legislature was without proper consideration. He stated that he believed certain seasons should be designated as spawning seasons, and that no fish of any kind should be caught at that time.

Mr. Allen spoke, telling of the hardships that the present law would work on the people of this section who were dependent upon commercial fishing for a livelihood. He urged that some plan be worked out whereby the restriction would be modified.

Resolution Drawn Up.

After considerable discussion among the fishermen Judge Snow drew up the following resolution:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Fairfax County, who are engaged in commercial fishing in this section of the creeks, bays and inlets emptying into the Potomac River above Hallowing Point on said river, do hereby petition the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries of Virginia to pass a resolution amending section 39 of the game laws and fish code of Virginia, to permit the use of fyke nets in the above described waters during the months of March to December, inclusive, and to permit the use of haul seines for the purpose of catching German carp, during the entire year.

"In the event of favorable action on this petition by the commission we and each of us do hereby pledge ourselves to obey the laws of this State with reference to the catching of black bass and to further pledge to use our best efforts to furnish the proper authorities information of any violation thereof and aid in the prosecution of the offenders."

47 Persons Sign.

This motion was unanimously adopted by those present, and 47 persons signed the petition. Judge Snow explained that if favorable action were obtained, it could not become a law until the next meeting of the commission, in order to have the plan advertised for public hearing, that no instructions would be issued by the commission to the game wardens to enforce the law in the meantime, and that pending final action, fishing would be allowed with nets in the above-mentioned waters.

If the law is relaxed in this matter, the license fee on nets will be abolished and permits issued instead, which will be of great aid to the fishermen.

Judge Snow further informed the gathering that in case the petition was not received in a favorable manner he would use his efforts to have the members of the commission come here in a body and hold a public hearing, at which time the fishermen could present their case to the entire body.

James U. Kincheloe, Fairfax County Commissioner of Revenue, announced yesterday that his office issued 530 licenses during January, fees paid amounting to $10,362.60. This is compared with 478 licenses issued during January, 1930, at a cost of $10,146.49. The 530 licenses issued this year include 227 merchants' licenses, which brought in $7,662.64, as compared with 206 in a similar period last year which paid $7,366.49. The second largest group of licenses was issued to tobacco retailers who bought $815 worth of licenses; 25 restaurants paid $215.21; 45 lodging houses, $225; 21 attorneys, $475. There will be additional licenses secured during 1931. The 478 licenses of last January had increased during the year to 665, which paid $11,855.92.

The regular weekly fox hunt of the Fairfax Hunt Club will start this morning from Crandall's farm at Chantilly. Another hunt will be held Monday, February 23, which will be of the nature of a George Washington Birthday celebration. It will start from Seneca, on the Potomac River. Following each of the hunts the members will return to the clubhouse at Sunset Hills for the hunt breakfast.

REVENUE IN FAIRFAX IS FIXED AT $563,136

County Tax Budget Adopted Tentatively by Board; Funds Allotted.

ESTIMATE IS INCREASED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The synopsis of the Fairfax County budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1931, and ending June 30, 1932, and for the tax year beginning July 1, 1931, as tentatively adopted by the county supervisors, shows that the estimated revenue is $563,136.46, which includes both county and district levies. Of this amount the county levies will be $470,100.66, and the district revenues total $94,035.80. This is compared with the county receipts of $471,873.43 for 1929-30, and the estimated county receipts of $464,100.66 for the current year. The increase over the current year is based on the slight net increase in total valuations.

The estimated county expenditures include $29,697.81, for administration, an increase of $2,675 over last year. This increase is made up of $500 for additional salaries of the Board of Supervisors, $75 expense for county clerk, $1,000 extra expense for county jail, $600 for an additional deputy requested by Sheriff E. P. Kirby; $500 for office expenses and incidentals. These increases will be submitted to taxpayers at the public hearing to be held March 5.

Judiciary Allotment Raised.

The judiciary allotment was set at $3,220, an increase of $1,250 over last year, due to the increase in cost of civil juries. Public buildings were allowed $7,080, no increase; elections were increased from $1,700 to $2,500. A $2,000 increase was made in the allowance for the poor, from $6,000 to $8,000. Public health was increased from $5,500 to $6,500, to take care of the $1,000 formerly contributed by R. Walton Moore. The allotment for predatory animals and birds was decreased from $2,400 to $1,400.

County funds for education show a slight increase from $204,034.26 to $204,229.67. This includes a decrease of $5,749.54 in expenses of administration balanced against increases of $69.92 for salary of clerical services; $4,565.03 for teachers' salaries; $1,319 for the school debts.

The allowance for county roads shows a slight decrease from $170,799.80 to $170,568.04. This includes decreases of $100 in allowance for engineering equipment and $3,000 for equipment of bridges and construction, and an increase of $2,868.45 in maintenance of roads and bridges.

Other Funds Unchanged.

No change is made in the funds for farm agent, $984; home agent, $1,100; forest fires, $200; police patrol of roads, $2,000; public welfare, $1,500; fire protection, $4,500; county's share of salary of superintendent of schools, $1,050. There is an increase in the allowance for fees paid the State accountant's office from $260 to $500 and the $200 paid each year to the children's home in Richmond from miscellaneous funds is this year definitely placed in the budget. Appropriations included last year and omitted entirely this year are $10,000 for reassessment of real estate and $3,500 for prevention of bovine tuberculosis.

The total increases in county assessment amount to $16,978.40. The total decreases amount to $23,349.54, leaving a net decrease of $6,371.14.

The budget lists the estimated total district revenues of next year at $93,035.80, as compared with $149,557.71 in 1920 and $73,239.55 in 1931. In the district a 1-cent tax is levied for district roads. This shows a slight variation over the current year's figures due to the change in valuation under the new assessment.

In the district allotments for education and capital outlay, Centerville has $1,500, allowed for construction of a new colored school at Cub Run. Dranesville's school bond issue amounts to $3,994.54; Falls Church, $6,009.47; Lee District, $3,000 (as a nest egg for a new school at Lorton); Mount Vernon District, $7,500 (for a start on a district building program); Providence District, for school bonds, $5,886.94. The net increase in district levies for schools amounts to $12,344.45.

Funds to Be Raised.

The sums to be raised for interest and sinking funds for bond issue roads show no change over last year. Dranesville District must raise $21,413.76; Falls Church District, $17,889.26; Mount Vernon District, $4,843.89; Providence District, $2,068.88.

The net increase in district expenses will be $12,534. The net increase in both county and district funds is $6,162.86. Under the budget law of the Virginia Code the tentative budget must be published during February and a public hearing held in March following. The budget can be altered so as to meet the public demand before it is finally adopted, but the budget as finally adopted can not be altered or changed after April 1, except upon unanimous consent of the entire board; and then they can not either add nor substract more than 10 per cent from the budget when it is finally adopted, and the levies will be set at the April meeting of the board.

The actual figures upon which the levies will be based are not as yet available because of the changes made by the county board of tax equalization and review. The figures on real estate, it is expected, will show an increase of approximately $800,000 over last year, with a decrease of approximately $200,000 in the estimated returns on personal property.

According to figures compiled by Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, deputy treasurer of Fairfax County, the number of dogs owned by persons of the county have greatly decreased, as only 2,190 dog licenses have been purchased so far this year as compared with 3,316 issued during 1930. The amount paid for dog licenses last year was $3,933.30 as compared with $3,250 collected this year. February 1 was the time limit for obtaining such licenses. The county game warden and his assistants have received instructions to check up on the dog situation in the county in order to find out if the owners of the dogs are evading paying licenses. County Game Warden A. B. Carter states that he will prosecute all persons violating the State dog law.

LADY ASTOR ASSAILS DRY BILL IN BRITAIN

local option—three options—no drink, drink as it is now, or public control. I believe if you get a bill like that the people would get drink out of private hands and the hands of vested interests.

"The reason we haven't got local option is because the vested interests are so powerful in this house and in the other house. You might as well call it the 'beerage' as the peerage. It would be a very good name for it."

At this point the speaker rebuked Lady Astor.

"I would remind the noble lady," he said, "that it is a rule of this house not to say anything disrespectful of the other place" (the House of Lords).

The liquor interests spend $4,000,000 a year in advertising, Lady Astor said, adding that only a quarter of that amount is spent in advertising milk. "And milk is a healthy drink," she said.

"Yes, a beastly drink," interjected a Conservative, and the House roared.

"Guiness (one of the most popular brands of English stout) is good Guiness," Lady Astor went on, parodying advertisements which say 'Guiness is good for you.' I've always thought how misleading these advertisements are. See if the sailor swimming for a botle of beer when we all know that if he gets it he wouldn't be swimming. Athletes who are really strong don't drink. Why were we beaten at cricket? The Australian players didn't drink."

Failure Has Been Tragic.

The Right Hon. Walter Guiness, third son of the Earl of Iveagh, head of the Guiness Co., is a member of the House but did not participate in today's debate.

Sir William Wayland, conservative, moving rejection of the bill, declared: "Under prohibition in the United States the people are drinking more and under worse conditions than before. Prohibition in America and Finland has not only resulted in tragic failure. But it has demoralized and lowered the moral tone of both nations. If you are going to base your demand for prohibition on the experience of the United States you are never going to build upon a more rotten foundation."

Opening debate on the bill Mr. Scrymgeour said, "evidence given before the present royal licencing commission showed that in four London brewing companies there were among the shareholders 46 peers, 20 peeresses, 161 lords and ladies and honorables, 47 baronets, 106 knights and 17 members of parliament."

The Rev. James Barr, Labor member from Motherwell, who seconded the bill, claimed that the prohibition law has not been a failure in America. He quoted an unnamed person in America who was converted to prohibition by seeing the difference between Seattle sober and Seattle drunk.

Here Col. F. E. Freemantle, Tory, asked, "Is there any city in this country you would describe as a 'city drunk?'"

"Yes, Glasgow on a Saturday night," interpolated A. MacLaren, a Labor member and Mr. Barr added, "I can confirm that statement."

Seek Liberty Abroad.

Whereupon, Lady Astor called out, "Waterloo road, near the House of Commons."

A jocular attitude toward the alleged working of prohibition in the United States was taken by F. A. McQuisten, a Tory and an ardent wet, who said, "Since its advent Americans have become for the first time a maritime race. They want to turn their backs on the Statue of Liberty, which looks out to sea, so as to get the liberty denied them in their own country.

"It's more remunerative to be a prohibition agent than to be President of the United States. That helps settle the question of 'what to do with our boys.'

"The 12-mile limit was conceded at the instance of the bootleggers because with a 3-mile limit anybody could be a bootlegger, but with the 12-mile limit it was only possible to those in the 'ring.'

"What about Al Capone? I'm told there's a wireless message waiting for me to the effect that I oppose this measure he will 'put me on the spot' because he's thinking of coming over here and starting in business. Most Americans aren't sufficiently civilized to be entrusted with strong drink."

A. Short, undersecretary of the Home office, speaking for the government told the House that as the royal licensing commission is still investigating the "liquor question" the government would not support the Scrymgeour bill.

The number of the dry bill was 13. This is Friday the thirteenth.

MEMBERS ASK FIRE CHIEF TO RESIGN

Potter of Cabin John Department Accused of Anti-Ritchie Activities.

HE REFUSES TO QUIT

Resignation of A. A. Potter, recently elected president of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department, was requested last night by members of the department because of alleged anti-Ritchie activity during the recent campaign which was said to have led county legislators to oppose enactment of a desired law while Potter continued as president.

Potter declined to resign. In a letter addressed to Miss Lavinia Engle, Montgomery County member of the Maryland House of Delegates, last night, he accused members of the department of "playing politics" and failing to merit the confidence of the community.

The proposed legislation, which allegedly is being held up by Potter's presidency, is a bill introduced at Annapolis last week providing for a fire department taxing area along the Conduit road. This bill was sponsored by the Cabin John Department in opposition to the proposed establishment of a single fire-taxing area for all territory between Wisconsin avenue and the Potomac River as advocated by O. P. M. Brown, president of the Bethesda Fire Department.

Letter to Delegate.

In his letter to Miss Engle, Potter recommends the affiliation with Bethesda because of the strife in the Cabin John department. He formerly had opposed the Bethesda plan, being a member of the committee which drew the bill providing for a separate taxing area.

Potter's letter follows: "My Dear Miss Engle: Circumstances relating to the matter of fire protection in the Conduit road area of Montgomery County impel me, as president of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department (to which position, though I did not seek it, I was elected without opposition two weeks ago) to address you regarding the situation, since you alone of the Democratic county delegation had my support as a registered Democrat in the recent election.

"There is, as you are doubtless aware, now before the Assembly a bill to provide a fire tax area in this district, the funds to go to the support of our volunteer department. At a special meeting of the department last night, the chairman of our legislative committee, Mr. David Tuchey, who presented the bill before you, asked for my resignation as president on the ground that it had been informed by members of the delegation that this bill would not be passed while I was at the head of the department, because of a blue book issued by me in opposition to Gov. Ritchie in the recent campaign.

Feels Flattered.

"I feel flattered, indeed, by this recognition of my efforts on behalf of my convictions—I had hardly hoped they would ever be taken so seriously by the organization. I would like, however, to make it plain, through you, that in view of present conditions of friction and factionalism (in which I have not been a partisan) within our department, I have come to the conclusion that it would be folly to put any more public funds in the department's hands by the passage of this bill.

"In the face of my earnest efforts to compose the differences of the two factional leaders and to get the affairs of the department established on a basis of mutual agreement and legality under our corporate charter and by-laws, an effort is being made by one of the factions, as has also been done by the other, to maintain control of the department's affairs through procedure which my attorneys advise me is illegal. I do not see any possibility of composing the situation without becoming partisan myself and indorsing procedure, for one side or the other, which is illegal or at leat not in the public interest.

"I am nevertheless most earnestly of the opinion that an assured fire-protection should be provided for this area at once. With the horror of the Moxley fire at Glen Echo still vivid in our memory, I am informed by the president of the Bethesda Fire Board, Mr. O. P. M. Brown, that his chief has been of the opinion that had he but been on the scene five or ten minutes earlier, the lives of those children and their mother might have been saved; and it is just those five or ten minutes which it takes for the Bethesda company to reach the Conduit road. Despite the opposition to taxation expressed in a petition from residents of Cabin John Park opposing the present bill, which petition I think is now before you in Annapolis, I can not but feel that this opposition would dwindle to virtually nothing if and when the people of the community feel assured that playing politics with their property, to say nothing of human agony, is at an end and that they are going to get dependable, well-managed protection for the money they are asked to pay in taxes.

"I, therefore, suggest that the bill be redrafted to include the proposed fire-tax area in that of Bethesda, so that the Bethesda Fire Board can take over the management of the Conduit road station. I call your attention to the fact that I have heretofore opposed this procedure, but I see no other way at present for the community to get the fire protection it imperatively needs.

"Very sincerely yours,
"ALDEN A. POTTER."

Dawes Urges Economy In British Government

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Greater economy in expenditures of governmental deparmtnets as a means of ommended tongiht by Ambassador meeting decreased revenues was rec-Charlese G. Dawse in a speech at a dinner of civil service employes.

SPECIAL PROGRAM PLANNED BY CHOIR

Will Illustrate Sermon on Spirit Voices at Mount Vernon Place.

FIRST TIME DONE HERE

One of the largest and most successful church choirs in Washington is that of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. That church has the distinction also of having the largest congregation numerically of any Protestant church in Washington—5,000 members. It has the further distinction of having a famous archeologist and scholar as its pastor.

Tomorrow evening this choir, under the leadership of its director, Prof. R. Deane Shure, and the minister of the church, Dr. W. A. Shelton, will collaborate in a special service of music, the sermon fitting the occasion, and the music fitting the sermon.

Mr. Shure has written and has published many suites and individual numbers depicting scriptural incidents. His suite, "Through Palestine," was used in over 700 churches during the first year of its publication.

At the service tomorrow night Dr. Shelton will speak for five minutes preceding the playing of five numbers on the organ by Mr. Shure. Dr. Shelton has visited all of the scenes of the biblical episode to be used, and will be able to speak of them first hand. He has titled the sermon "Spirit Voices."

The numbers used will be "Cypress Groves of Lebanon," "Kidron, Brook of Sorrow," "Spirit Wind," "Cloud of Sinai," and "Voice of the Descending Dove."

The idea of the sermon with music is gaining wide popularity over the country, but tomorrow night will be the first time it has been used at Mount Vernon Church. The service will begin at 8 o'clock.

Black Oak Farm Wins Herd Test

Purcellville, Va., Feb. 13.—The Loudoun cow testing report shows that in group No. 1, Black Oak Farm, with 89 cows on test, made high herd, with an average production of 765 pounds of milk and 34 pounds of butter fat. binations, Senator Capper said, "is steadily in the direction of keeping prices up," and their influence and power has spread rapidly, until they control the price situation.

Just what is to be done to remedy the situation, he said, he could not forcast until after he has had time to consult with other members of the committee, the chairman said.

Mr. Hornstein Agrees.

Mr. Hornstein agreed that the price of bread was too high in Washington and should be reduced. When asked about the price at which he sells bread, Mr. Hornstein said the members of his association charge the standard prices fixed by the bakers because they felt it wise when in Rome to do as the Romans do, although he could not see any reason the retailer should be given a 1-cent margin on a loaf of white bread and told to add a 2-cent margin to the price of whole wheat bread.

Bread prices here are fixed in New York, he said, adding that he had talked with many independent bakers in Washington and they had told him they were afraid to cut the price of their product below the price fixed by the large bakers.

M. L. Langford, manager of the bakery of the Sanitary Grocery Co., told the committee that his company uses arkady in the production of its bread. This is a patented material added to bread.

Seventy-five per cent of the bakers of the country use the product, Mr. Langford said, insisting that it had the approval of the Department of Agriculture and was used primarily to add to the attractiveness of bread.

Senator Capper declared that the material was designed to add to the moisture absorption of bread so that smaller quantities of other ingredients would be needed to make a pound of bread.

Monopoly Is Charged.

George Shibley, director of the Research Institution, of Washington, told the committee that there was "a monopoly" in the baking business and urged that the committee get the income tax statements of the big baking company and their officers to ascertain their profits.

Joseph Abbott, president of the American Sugar Refining Co. and J. R. Post, president of the National Sugar Refining Co., told the committee there was no combination in the sugar industry to control prices and at present time the public is getting refined sugar as the lowest price in the history of the world. Mr. Post said refiners would be glad to get 10 cents profit out of 100 pounds of sugar.

The hearings were adjourned until Tuesday when inquiry will be begun into the dairy industry. Senator Capper said he is anxious to make a report to the Senate before adjournment.

PROGRAM PLANNED FOR COMMUNION

St. Andrew's Brotherhood to Observe Anniversary at Cathedral.

TALKS ARE ARRANGED

The program for the third annual Washington's birthday corporate communion for men and boys to be held at Washington Cathedral on February 23 at 8 a. m., under the auspices of the Potomac Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was announced yesterday by Albert W. Atwood, of St. Margaret's Parish, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Bishop James E. Freeman will be the celebrant at this communion service and will deliver a brief address from the chancel.

Through the courtesy of the Rev. Charles T. Warner, rector of St. Alban's Parish, breakfast will be served to the senior members of the brotherhood and their guests in Satterlee Hall at 9:15 a. m. The conference, which is to follow at 10 a. m., will open with greetings from the Bishop and Mr. Warner.

Five-Minute Talks Arranged.

Five-minute informal talks on the general theme "Work Which Men Can Do for the Church and the Kingdom" will be delivered by James V. Guthrie, of St. Paul's Parish, Washington Circle, on "Increasing Church Membership;" T. W. Seay, of St. Thomas' Parish on "Greeting Strangers;" James Brannin, of the Church of the Savior, Brookland, on "The Men's Club and Advent Communion;" Raymond K. Jones, of Rock Creek Parish, on "Special Men's Services," and Maj. Granville Munson, of Pinckney Memorial Church, Hyattsville, on "Districting the Parish."

SENATE WILL VOTE ON RELIEF TODAY

him in the midst of a discussion on the war debts to make a quorum call. This gave the Oklahoman opportunity to rest for a few minutes, when he resumed.

Smoot kept his seat as Thomas proceeded but the two were the only regular attendants in the Senate.

As it became clear to the leaders that a filibuster was in progress, conferences began. It was determined first to see how much support, if any, Thomas had among other members. The leaders did not think he could carry on alone much longer.

Meanwhile, Senator Smoot blocked the transaction of any other business, so as to prevent even another quorum call for a rest for Thomas.

Hinges on Indian Item.

Thomas made a point of order against the conference report containing the relief item on the ground that the conferees violated the rules by reinstating in the Department of the Interior appropriation bill a House provision for $51,000 to support the Kiowa Indian agency in Oklahoma. It was overruled and he continued his criticism of the Indian provision.

The House originally provided for the $51,000 to come out of the trust funds of the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indians, but the Senate struck this out and provided the money should be from the Federal Treasury.

Thomas contended the Kiowa agency supported many tribes which did not contribute to the trust fund and therefore it was a violation of the fund.

Smoot said the item has been provided for year after year.

The Senate at last appeared to have reached the cross roads on whether an extra session is to be forced, and both Democratic and Republican leaders were determined to force this to an issue in a drive to avert such meeting.

A comfortable majority for the drought relief proposal was assured on the basis of the statement of Secretary Hyde that there could be no prohibition against the use of the loans by the farmer borrowers for the purchase of food and clothing.

Representative Moore to Speak.

Representative C. Ellis Moore, of Cambridge, Ohio, will speak to the Everyman's Bible Classs of the National City Christian Church tomorrow morning at 9:40 o'clock.

DR. SHEEN PREACHER AT ST. GABRIEL'S

Seven Sermons by Professor to Be Notable Catholic Lenten Observance.

RYAN RADIO TALK TODAY

Dr. Fulton Sheen, professor in the Catholic University, will preach every Wednesday evening during Lent at St. Gabriel's Catholic Church on Grant Circle. This will probably be the outstanding event in the Lenten season in Washington Catholic churches, as Dr. Sheen is not only a famous scholar, but one of the most eloquent preachers in the church.

Recently he sprang into international prominence by attacking Prof. Albert Einstein's new statement of his religious faith, and in a series of articles he defended the historic faith as embodied in the Christian religion.

Dr. Sheen will preach seven sermons, each on Wednesday evening. They are in rotation as follows: 1, "Divided Substance;" 2, "Spiritual Bankruptcy;" 3, "The Primacy of the Spiritual;" 4, "The Recognition of Authority;" 5, "The Sense of Sin;" 6, "The Wisdom of the Ignorant;" 7, "The Pulpit of the Cross."

As a preacher, Dr. Sheen is in great demand. He has preached in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York and in one of the noted churches in London.

Lent officially begins at St. Gabriel's, as at all other Catholic churches, on Ash Wednesday. It will be observed with three special services on that day, masses being said in the morning and there will be services afternoon and evening, at each of which the ashes will be blessed and distributed to the congregation. On Friday evenings during Lent there will be special services—the Stations of the Cross.

Dr. Ryan Will Speak.

Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and noted authority on the labor question, will discuss "Catholic Principles in Relation to Unemployment" on the Washington Catholic Radio hour tomorrow at 5 o'clock. The Washington Catholic radio hour is broadcast every Sunday afternoon at this time through station WOL directly from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney is pastor.

Father Hurney will preside at the service and will be the celebrant at benediction. The soloists of the service will be Miss Florence Yocum and Gerald Whelan. The musical program is under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

At St. James' Church.

The Lenten schedule of services at St. James' Church, Thirty-seventh street and Rhode Island avenue, Mount Rainier, Md., begins Ash Wednesday. Mass at 7 a. m. when ashes will be blessed and distributed after mass, 3:30 p. m. and after benediction, 7:30 p. m.

Stations of Cross every Sunday and Friday 7:30 p. m. Recitation of rosary, benediction and sermon, Tuesdays, 7:30 p. m.

Danville, Va., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Police received reports today that William Murdoch, general secretary of the National Textile Workers union, a Communist organization, had been seen at Schoolfield several times in the last few days and that meetings sponsored by the Communist union are being held in woods near the mill village.

Murdoch served a jail sentence here, during the recent textile strike, for distributing libelous literature.

Danville was plastered earlier this week with circulars praising activities of the National Textile Workers in North Carolina and denouncing the United States Government, the United Textile Workers of America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate and management of the Danville mills.

CHURCHES PREPARED FOR ASH WEDNESDAY

Methodists to Join Other Faiths in Observing Lenten Period.

SERVICES IN THEATER

Lent is almost on us. Beginning with Ash Wednesday, it will be in force 40 days. Of course, it is a universal custom with the Roman Catholics and with the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Lutherans, but in these latter years the Methodists also have taken up its observance. Other religious groups will give recognition to the Lenten season, but it will be most pronounced in the denominations named.

The Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church a few years ago changed the date of holding its annual conference, which had always been in March, that it might not conflict with the observance of Lent. This is the nearest approach to an official recognition that it has had from that numerous people.

In addition to the services that will be held in the churches there will be a noonday service during the last month of Lent in one of the downtown theaters, held under the auspices of the Federation of Churches. Dr. Charles R. Brown, of Yale University, will be one of the speakers, and the others will be Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, Bishop W. F. McDowell and Dr. J. R. Sizoo.

At Calvary Methodist.

Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church will hold special services every Thursday evening during Lent. The series will open next Thursday evening in Guild Hall with the presentation of Charles Rann Kennedy's play, "The Servant in the House," played by the Montgomery Players. All visitors are cordially welcome.

All of the Protestant Churches of Chevy Chase will hold union Lenten services every Thursday evening, beginning February 26, in All Saints Episcopal Church and in Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church. Dr. Harris E. Kirk, minister of Franklin Avenue Presbyterian Church, of Baltimore, will preach at these services.

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will preach a series of Lenten discourses, beginning Ash Wednesday, in the Epiphany Chapel on U street near Sixteenth, on the general theme: "Redemption Through Christ." His subject for Ash Wednesday is: "The Divine Christ."

Litany at Grace Lutheran.

Grace Lutheran Church will observe Lent with a special service on the evening of Ash Wednesday. The litany will be rendered, followed by a brief sermon and Holy Communion. Special services will be held thereafter each Thursday evening. During the hour preceding these services a special class is being conducted by the pastor for the benefit of adults desiring to unite with the church at Easter time.

At St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, Dr. Herbert Scott Smith will conduct prayers and deliver an address on Mondays and Tuesdays at 4:45 p. m. His theme will be "Christian Stewardship." On Wednesday afternoons the Rev. Robert Shores will deliver the address after the litany. His theme will be "Christ and the World Today." Holy Communion will be observed on Thursday mornings at 11 o'clock, with no afternoon service. On Friday afternoons there will be talks to children by the Rev. Robert Shores, on "The Use of the Prayer Book."

Will Have Two Services.

At the Church of the Transfiguration there will be two services on Ash Wednesday, one at 7:30 in the morning and the other at 8 in the evening. The rector, the Rev. J. J. Queally, will begin a series of Lenten sermons on Sunday and will give a series of illustrated lectures on other evenings. Miss Charlotte Klein, organist, will be in charge of the special music.

Dr. Florian Vurpillot, pastor of the French congregation which worships at St. John's Episcopal Church, will preach every Friday during Lent at 4:45 p. m. on "The Parable of the Sower."

Mr. Larcombe to Preach On His Anniversary

Thirty-five years ago the Rev. James A. Larcombe was ordained in the Baptist ministry. Tomorrow he will celebrate the anniversary by preaching at the Fifth Baptist Church, which was the scene of his ordination.

Only the Rev. E. Hez Swem and Dr. J. B. Clayton are alive of those who composed the ordination council. Mr. Larcombe is now doing Y. M. C. A. work at Perth Amboy, N. J.

Dr. Sizoo Will Lecture On Studies of India

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will begin a series of studies on India at the midweek prayer service, under the general theme: "The Christian Enterprise in Modern India."

For the ensuing weeks the subjects will be: "The Awakening of India," "The Failure of National Religions," "The Leadership of Great Britain," "Ghandi," and "What Shall Be the Attitude to Christian Missions in India."

Councilor Will Resume Teaching Vaughn Class

Tomorrow will mark the fourth anniversary of the Rev. Homer J. Councilor as teacher of the Vaughn Class of Calvary Baptist Church. He will teach the Bible lesson, it being his first appearance before the class since his recent severe illness.

It has been "visitation week" for the class under the direction of Richard Sauer, and more than 300 men will be present. The fortieth annual banquet of the class will be on February 20.

Sentence Sermons

By The REV. ROBERT LOUIS WOOD
(Pastor of Petworth Methodist Church.)

The Cry of Faith

"Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief." Mark ix:24.

THIS is ever our cry. For none of us is so secure in his faith that in the moment of its strength he does not cry out at the all too apparent weakness of it.

Our faith is strong when we sit in our comfortable pew at the Church; it is very weak when we face the temptation to yield to lower things during the week. We believe tremendously in God when we sing His praises with a congregation of worshipers; He is not nearly so real when we meet sickness, pain, sorrow and death. We are very sure about eternal verities when we kneel to receive the symbols of the broken body and shed blood of Jesus Christ; we are not so certain about such matters when in the daily ruck of material things gone mad.

Today we may be very sure about our faith. But experience tells us that before the echoes of our confident boast of assurance have died away we may be crying for help lest we lose our hold upon God altogether. For some of us the cry of our faith too often must be: "Help Thou mine unbelief."

Thank God for that cry. When my load overwhelms my faith, when the way is so dark that I can not find my path save for the star that shines above the darkness, I can cry for help. When I can not understand my pain, and my sorrow-numbed senses refuse to struggle longer with the eternal problem of "Why?" then I can lift my voice to plead for my weakened faith. I may not always understand; my faith may always be equal to the emergency; but I can always voice my need for help.

"Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief."

PETWORTH CRUSADE ENDS TOMORROW

Gospel Revival at Methodist Church Is Reported as Highly Successful

TO RECEIVE MEMBERS

The attendance at the Gospel Crusade, conducted by Dr. George W. Cooke and the Rev. Harold Vigneulle at Petworth Methodist Episcopal Church, has been excellent during the last week. Visitors have come from distant points, and a constantly increasing stream of letters come from radio listeners who have listened-in to the daily broadcast.

Tomorrow will be the last day of the crusade. Three services will be held, to which every one is invited. Dr. Cooke will preach at 11 a. m. on "The Upper Window." The afternoon service will begin with singing for every body, led by Mr. Vigneulle, and Dr. Cooke will preach on "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

At the closing service at 7:45 p. m. the feature will be the group singing, with musical specialties by Dr. Cooke and Mr. Vigneulle. The subject for Dr. Cooke's closing sermon will be "How Old Are You?"

During the day a large group of members will be received into the church as a result of the crusade. Many are renewing their church vows, and others are coming into the church by letter and on confession of faith. The exact number to be received is not yet known, but is expected to reach at least 75.

A special service is announced by the Rev. R. L. Wood, pastor of the church, for Thursday evening, at which a welcome will be given to all those who unite with the church tomorrow. The Sunday evening services, which have become widely known, will be continued under the leadership of Mr. Wood.

Other ministers who will participate in the services are the Rev. Moses R. Lovell, of Waterbury, Conn., former minister of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church; the Rev. Robert E. Treat, of the Bushnell Congregational Church, Detroit; the Rev. George L. Farnham, of the Cleveland Park Congregational Church, and Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, guest minister of the First Congregational Church, of this city.

The Rev. Mark Depp will continue his series of talks at Calvary Methodist Church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, based upon great hymns of the church. This is the third of the series and the hymn which will be the basis of discussion is "Lead, Kindly Light." This hymn, as were also the others which are being used in the series, was selected by vote of the congregation.

There will be a service of song by the congregation during the first fifteen minutes of the hour. This is a regular feature of the Sunday evening services. S. Edward Widdifield will offer the evening prayer and Dr. Ralph Teunis will read the Scripture lesson.

Luther Place Easter Class to Number 400

Reports from Luther Place Memorial Church with regard to the campaign for new members indicates that with the reception of the next class on Easter Sunday the total number received since last April has been 400. This is believed to be a record.

118 Laymen to Canvass For Budget of Church

Eckington Presbyterian Church believes in using its man power. It has found this profitable in past years and on Sunday will use it again. In the afternoon 118 men of the church will go out two by two and canvass the congregation for pledges for the budget for next year. This is wholly a men's move.

Under the leadership of the Rev. Henry B. Wooding, Eckington has just closed a successful year, both in the reception of new members and financially.

Dr. Snyder's Work Reveals Progress

St. Paul's Lutheran Church Congregation Expands; Builds Cathedral.

Dr. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, came to Washington a year ago to take charge of his congregation. He found them forced to move from their time-honored edifice because it had been condemned, and worshipping in a movie theater. The attendance was not large, but it was composed of faithful men and women.

Under his dynamic leadership the first year of his ministry here has been most fruitful. A new church building, a Gothic cathedral, has been started and will be completed shortly after Easter. The Sunday congregations have grown from week to week until they fill the theater. The midweek and evening services at Epiphany Chapel have crowded that little church. And the morale of his people, it is said, was never so high and enthusiastic as at present.

One of the most intelligent members of his congregation says of Dr. Snyder that he is "a forceful preacher," and that he has "a rare personality."

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, of Chicago, who is guest preacher at the First Congregational Church, is preaching a series of sermons on Sunday evenings on "Modern American Life Revealed." His theme tomorrow night will be, "Revelations of Slang."

GIDEONS, OF BIBLE FAME, TO CONVENE

Sessions Today and Tomorrow Will Consider Mission Work in Hotels.

WILL OCCUPY PULPITS

Thirty-two years ago a little group of Christian commercial travelers met and organized a small band to which they gave the name of Gideons. They proposed to become, in a quiet sort of way, evangels of Christ, and the idea occurred to them that the best service they could render would be the placing of a copy of the Bible in every hotel room in America.

At first they were laughed at, and then the scoffers took them in hand, and the more they were laughed at and scoffed at the faster they grew. In the very outset of their campaign they found that many of their Bibles were either stolen or removed from the rooms where they had been placed, but when complaints began to reach hotel managers that there were no Bibles in the rooms occupied by Gideons and their friends, a change came, since which time it is rare that a Gideon Bible is taken from the place where it is placed.

1,000,000 Bibles Placed.

Since its organization the Gideons have placed over 1,000,000 copies of Holy Writ in hotel guest rooms in this country, and their work goes on.

Beginning today and continuing through tomorrow the Gideons of four States will hold a convention at the Washington Hotel. The climax of the convention will be a mass meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the hotel, at which time the Bibles to be placed in hotels this year will be dedicated. The public is invited to this meeting.

In a number of Protestant churches tomorrow the Gideons will occupy the pulpits, either at the morning service or in the evening, and will tell their message to the people.

At the First Reformed Church, Dr. J. D. Buhrer, the minister, has turned his pulpit over to G. A. Bowden, of Richmond, Va., who will take at the morning hour on "The Value and Object of Bible Distribution."

At Gospel Tabernacle.

At the Full Gospel Tabernacle, E. M. Werner, of Pennsylvania, will speak on the work of this organization. The Rev. Harry L. Collier, the pastor of this church, will preside.

At Takoma Park Baptist Church the evening service will be turned over to the Gideons. After an old-fashioned song service, led by Mr. Fred W. Pearce, Harry L. Bond, a representative of the order, will deliver an address.

At the Metropolitan Baptist Church the evening service will be devoted to the Gideons. Pastor Ball will preside and the Baraca Male Chorus of 30 voices will sing. The address will be delivered by Samuel R. Boggs, of Philadelphia, who is national chaplain of the association. His theme will be, "The Bible From a Business Man's Standpoint."

The All-Comers' Bible Class of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church will be addressed Sunday morning in their class by Samuel R. Boggs.

Rev. Kenneth B. Carson To Be Installed March 4

The Rev. Kenneth B. Carson has accepted a call to the pastorate of Garden Memorial Presbyterian Church and will be installed by the Presbytery of Washington March 4 at 8 p. m.

Henry B. Wooding will deliver the charge to the pastor, and the Rev. Freely Rohrer will deliver the charge to the congregation. The benediction will be pronounced by Mr. Carson.

Jewry to Celebrate For Siyum Hashass

Brilliant Music, Speeches and Banquet at Synagogue Tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon Washington Jewry will for the first time in its history celebrate the Siyum Hashass, the conclusion of the study of the Talmud.

The festivities will be held at the Sixth Street Synagogue, with the participation of all local rabbis who will deliver the Hadrons appropriate for the occasion. A brilliant program of music and orations by the leading personalities of the city have been arranged. The committee in charge besides Rabbi Solomon H. Metz and Cantor Louis Novich, is Joseph A. Wilner, Alexander Koplon and Bernard Danzansky.

The event will conclude with a very elaborate banquet in the newly decorated vestry rooms of the synagogue. There will be positively no solicitations for funds—just a genuine Jewish Simchah in honor of the Torah. Representative Samuel Dickstein will speak.

Dinner Planned by Bible Class.

A dinner will be given Tuesday evening by the Everyman Bible Class of the National Christian Church, at which Judge Wade H. Ellis and Dr. R. H. Welshimer will be the chief speakers. Maurice Jarvis, a well known impersonator and monologist will also appear on the program.

BAR OUT SLAVE GOODS.

Prospective legislation to protect American industry from the Russian dumping program is in a tangle in Congress. The House ways and means committee has reported out a bill which pretends to afford relief, but which in reality leaves the door open to importation of all goods which are not produced in sufficient quantity within the United States to supply the consumptive demand. Obviously, American industry and labor will be swamped by Communist slave-made goods unless some effective law is enacted.

The whole difficulty with the proposed legislation on this subject seems to be that Congress attempts to set up restrictions that will apply to the entire world, when only the commerce of Soviet Russia is a menace. There is no demand that commerce with other countries be restricted. The only offender against American free labor is Soviet Russia. The situation calls for an embargo against all Soviet products, without jeopardizing American trade with friendly nations.

Sentiment in Congress is favorable to protection of American labor and industry against competition with the slave labor of Russia. Congress ought to be given an opportunity to vote on a measure that would accomplish that purpose. The only measure that can prove satisfactory is a direct embargo, applying to Soviet Russia alone. Representative Williamson has a bill in the House for that purpose.

The Soviet has declared for destruction of this and all other existing governments, and is engaged in a gigantic program to make that possible. Russia is an outlaw nation, not entitled to the rights and privileges that are accorded to friendly countries.

Russia already has an embargo against the United States and every other country. No nation can send goods into that country and put them on the market. They must sell to the Communist monopoly or not at all. This monopoly excludes innumerable products that the Russian people want and need. The Soviet's purchases are confined to machinery, tools and other goods designed to build up the Red industrial war machine. It buys only those commodities that might prove useful in the destruction of free labor and industry in other countries.

There can be no valid argument against an embargo on all exports from Communist Russia. It is impossible to combat the dumping program of the Soviet in any other way. This menace can not be met by a juggling of words already in the tariff law. Congress ought to strike one single blow that will end the menace of slave-made goods in American markets.

MARYLAND'S EASY MARRIAGES.

A bill pending in the Maryland Legislature provides that no marriage licenses shall be issued until 24 hours after application, and that no marriage shall be solemnized until 24 hours after issuance of the license. It would be a good thing for Maryland and the District of Columbia to enact this bill. Hasty and drunken marriages of minors are consummated all too often, resulting in great distress to families and damage to young people who discover too late that they have committed a crowning act of folly.

Unscrupulous ministers of the gospel are found in Maryland who perform obviously improper and sometimes unlawful marriages for the sake of a small fee. The organizations to which these ministers belong should discipline them. The appearance of minors in the middle of the night, sometimes too drunk to know what they are doing, ought to bring rebuke from a parson instead of eager participation in a questionable marriage ceremony. No minister worthy of his cloth will stoop to the dirty trade of consummating the marriage of intoxicated persons or minors who can not present proof of their parents' consent. A delay of 24 hours before issuing licenses and a further delay of 24 hours before solemnizing a marriage would not crucify any young couple, however impatient they might be, while it would often be the means of preventing blunders and crimes.

STABILIZING INDUSTRY.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States announces the creation of a committee of business leaders and economists to study the possibility of stabilizing industry, to the end that depressions may be made things of the past. "American business," says Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber, "is well aware of its responsibility in maintaining the fullest possible measure of employment. It is as desirable from an economic as from a social viewpoint, for unemployment is symptomatic of a general ailment which affects alike the wage-earner and the investor. So close are economic relationships today and so complicated the mechanism of production and distribution that no one branch of industry nor economic class can long escape the untoward effects of a depression with which others might be affected. The maintenance of the earning capacity of the worker is as necessary to business as is the maintenance of the consuming capacity of the farmer."

Individual industries have made considerable progress toward ironing out peaks and depressions of activity. The Procter & Gamble Co., General Electric and Dennison Co. are among others that guarantee their employes a certain number of weeks' work every year. They have found the policy of regulated activity to be beneficial in every respect. These individual companies, however, are handicapped in carrying forward their stabilization programs because of the interdependency of modern industry. General Electric, for example, is dependent upon a host of other industries for an outlet for its products and, when industrial activity slackens generally, it is hard pressed to keep its employes active.

It is in recognition of the interdependency of industry that the United States Chamber of Commerce proposes its study. "If individual employers can overcome the difficulties which stand in the way of security and continuity of employment," asks Mr. Barnes, "can industry as a whole obviate the difficulties which stand in the way of the same achievement in the larger field?" The chamber proposes to find out whether, through trade associations and the like, whole industries can not give their workers the assurance of sustained employment and uninterrupted earning capacity, thus providing a framework for a more stable industrial structure. The proposed study is of the largest importance.

THE MEMORIAL HIGHWAY.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, reminds the public and Congress that enactment of the Fess bill is absolutely essential to the completion of the Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard in time for the Washington Bicentennial celebration. There ought to be no objection to this measure. Construction of this beautiful highway from Washington's estate to Great Falls is one of the outstanding national testimonials to Washington. If this project should fail it would leave a lasting reproach upon Congress.

The bill in question would provide $2,300,000 for construction of the boulevard and $400,000 for the purchase of adjacent land necessary for beautification purposes. It seems that the measure is held up in the Senate on objection of Senator Howell to the latter item. Surely the Nebraska senator will not further delay action on this bill. It is inconceivable that one senator or the Senate as a group would jeopardize this tribute to Washington on his 200th anniversary.

BAD LAWMAKING.

Some of the difficulties in making law conform to common sense were pointed out in the address of Chief Justice Hughes to the Federal Bar Association. "How difficult it is," he exclaimed, "to secure legislation that is simple and unequivocal." In a less complicated age Legislatures could meet occasionally and formulate all the rules of society that were necessary. But today, says the Chief Justice, the Legislatures have not been able to keep pace with social demands in spite of the inordinate multiplication of laws.

The responsibilities that have fallen upon lawmaking bodies are enormous. Attempts have been made to shift part of this work to administrative officials. There is a growing tendency by the Legislatures to shape only general policies and to leave details of their application to executive officers. Nevertheless, the Legislatures are swamped with innumerable problems that can not be referred to any other body.

Not all of the difficulty that arises in the creation of law can be traced, however, to the complication of modern life. Legislative bodies are themselves to blame for much of the confusion and many of the incongruities resulting from their statutes. For political reasons they often adopt measures that are ambiguous. Witness the agony through which Congress has just passed in trying to appropriate money for purchase of food in the drought-stricken areas without mentioning that word.

Legislation is too frequently of a makeshift character, the result of political compromises rather than deliberate judgment. Measures of this type result in endless litigation and misunderstanding.

In 1928, says Chief Justice Hughes, the Government was responsible for 28.5 per cent of all cases that came before that high court and these did not include criminal cases. By 1930 the percentage had jumped to 40. Ambiguous and complicated legislation throws a heavy burden upon the courts as well as upon the executive departments.

One reason for this confusion is that Congress enacts fragmentary laws. Measures are not weighed according to their ultimate effect, but to satisfy an immediate demand. An excellent example of this type of legislation is the veterans' hospital bill now before the House. The important question of policy as to whether hospitalization shall be provided for only service-connected cases or all veterans who are in need of medical aid is being jammed into the legislative cauldron at a time when Congress can not possibly give it adequate attention.

Government by the majority is essentially based on compromise, but there is reason to believe that vast improvements could be made in the enactment of laws. The problem can not be solved by unloading greater responsibilities upon the courts and the administrative departments. Sooner or later Congress must face the problems of coordinating its laws, of formulating policies rather than ambiguous phrases and of conducting the Nation's business rather than that of individuals and groups.

MARINES IN NICARAGUA.

Secretary Stimson's announcement that American Marines are to be withdrawn from Nicaragua involves no change in policy. The Government has been gradually reducing the number of men on duty in that country in accordance with its progress toward pacification. Two years ago there were approximately 5,000 Marines in Nicaragua. At present there are about 1,000, and the Government's plan calls for withdrawal of half of this force by next June.

Enough Marines will remain on duty to train the native constabulary. President Moncada of Nicaragua has agreed to strengthen the national guard to a point where it will be fully capable of protecting life and property. When that has been accomplished the United States will gladly withdraw every man. The Marines have been functioning in Nicaragua since 1928 at the request of the Nicaraguan government. American lives and property were endangered. Foreign intervention was threatened. It became necessary for the United States to save the little republic from anarchy and possible intervention by European powers.

It is well that the combatant force is being withdrawn. Nicaragua has been leaning too heavily upon the United States for protection. Now that the policy of training native troops has been definitely established, the country will develop greater self-reliance. Under the guidance of the United States stability has been restored, and the native government now has only to preserve it.

The revolutionary element will be restrained by knowledge of the American policy not to allow Nicaragua to sink into anarchy. This Government must not allow the development of a situation that would warrant occupation of Nicaragua by a foreign power. If the State Department makes that policy plain and the Nicaraguan government abides by its pledge to maintain an adequate and efficient national guard, there should be no further occasion for the dispatch of Marines to the little republic.

The House ways and means committee reports out a bill granting a bonus that may reach $1,400,000,000. Now if it will report out a bill raising taxes to provide the $1,400,000,000 it will not be accused of trying to flimflam the veterans.

Indications are that the Senate may vote relief to the drought-stricken farmers in time to aid them in harvest of their crops next fall.

A wild gusher showered Oklahoma City with oil this week. But the wildest gushers of Oklahoma are operating in Washington.

A VOICE FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I, speaking for myself and many others on the Pacific Coast, say a word through your columns regarding the popular reaction toward the obstructionist policy of our Senate for the last month or more?

Firstly, we are convinced that many senators are more concerned about embarrassing the President than they are interested in furnishing constructive legislation for the relief of the unemployed and needy. The pertinent illustration is the fact—the unpleasant fact—that their eleemosynary obsession, their advertisement of a determination to set up a Federal soup kitchen, has already cut into the usual public support of the efficient Red Cross work. Apart from their meddlesome activities that fund would have been already oversubscribed. In our appeals on its behalf it is certainly discouraging to find our chief hindrance in our national Senate.

Again, when Senator Wheeler tearfully, hysterically, asserts that the administration is overlooking the millions of jobless in the great cities we would like to inform him that while that may be the proper note to sound on behalf of the "great" cities of Montana it presents a false picture of the situation here. Around San Francisco Bay there are more than a million people in cities with more than their share of the unemployed army, but we are both able and proud to take care of our own problem without begging aid and alms from the other States of the Union. If Montana can not do this let her speak for herself and for herself only.

Finally, we are quite sure it is time for a frank word to our Senate to attend to its own business—that of legislation—and cease emphasizing such wasteful trivialities as the Nye committee, to which, we notice, they have generously donated another $50,000. Such back-yard gossip may interest senators, but it has become both trite and tiresome to people who desire to see the country served and not scandalized. As for the senatorial furore about reconsidering nominations, it is only a pitiful exhibit of a weathercock mentality, which would like to tie a string to every decison.

Sentimental grandstanding and a European complex for handing out Government doles instead of constructive, courageous legislation is breeding both contempt and irritation among the thinking Americans, and we do not believe that the exhibition of individual idiosyncracies and prejudices on the floor of our Senate is a fair return for the commission to play the part of patriots and statesmen.

AN ANTIDOLE ARGUMENT.

Jobs for the jobless! Finding work for the unemployed has been a problem for practically every municipality in the country this winter, observes the Morristown Jerseyman. But in Paulsboro, Gloucester County, there is a different situation. A gypsy moth plague in the trees of the community have made it necessary for the Shade Tree Commission to hire 50 extra men. These men will be used to cut down badly blighted trees and to trim those not so seriously affected. The commission specified that it wanted a half hundred workers and expressed a preference for married men out of work.

There was so little response that Mayor James Wert has found it necessary to threaten arrest for men refusing a job. He says that illness is the only excuse he will accept.

If we had a dole system—God forbid—there would be countless thousands who would continue on its meager subsistence rather than to work. If it is difficult to get a hungry and jobless married man to swing an ax for pay it would be doubly difficult to persuade one living on a dole to ever do anything.

A FRIEND LEAVES.

I had him for a friend, but he Left earth and said no word to me;
Opened the door with his own hand
And stepped into that other land.

Now this I think: How failed him I
Since he disdained to say good-by?
Where had he found me short, that he Could go without one word to me?

I saw him but a week before.
The old familiar smile he wore.
Nor could I guess that even then
He knew we'd never meet again.

Had I been questioned yesterday
I should have said: "Let fall what may
Of grief or trouble burdensome
To me for aid my friend will come."

I took for granted he would call
On me among the first of all;
Now I must wonder to the end
Was I or was I not his friend?

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

A man named Ben Lindsey, who used to be a respected judge, is lecturing and writing magazine articles to advocate trial marriages and encourage young people to scorn the old-fashioned standards of virtue.

I have too much faith in your common sense to believe that he can poison your mind; but it is quite probable that you and your intimates have discussed his teachings, and I want to tell you how false and vicious they are.

I believe he does enormous harm. The magazines that print his stuff are the kind commonly read by the simple, and the simple are easily persuaded to do wrong. They will accept his defense of immorality as a license to do the things they once were afraid to do, and the inevitable result will be suffering and shame.

Russia tried to put in practice the theories this man advocates, and the result was such an orgy of promiscuous and unrestrained sex indulgence that the authorities became alarmed and began a campaign to undo the evil they had done.

In one of his magazine articles, Lindsey supports his theories by quoting unnamed college girls who boasted of their sex immorality and justified it on the ground that boys set the example. "Boys make no effort to be virtuous," they argued, "and we have as much right to be unchaste as they have."

That would be funny if it wasn't tragic. It would be as reasonable to say: "Because thieves steal, I have a right to steal."

Absurd as it is, that is the common contention of those who advocate the "single standard of morality." They do not say: "Let us teach men to be as decent as women," but always, "Men are indecent; therefore, let women follow their example."

But as a matter of fact, the country is full of boys who aren't indecent. Don't let anybody fool you about that. They keep themselves clean, and they hope and expect to marry girls who have kept themselves clean.

There are cynics who don't believe that, but they simply don't know the right set of people.

Nobody in love likes to play second fiddle. It is human nature to wish to be first. And just as you hope to marry a square and decent man and be the first in his experience, so every boy hopes to be first in the experience of the girl he loves and marries.

The sex morals of the barnyard are not natural to man. Even the most primitive races prize and protect the virtue of their women. And the whole of human experience shows that chastity is general where man develops high standards of honor, and sex immorality the rule where a decaying civilization surrenders to all corruption.

The noblest of our breed are those who build character by self-restraint, and love honor for its own sake. And though the hosts of hell dispute it, my dear, the lust of the flesh still is death.

Love, DAD.

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Rescue the Democracy.
Atlanta Constitution.

There are favorable signs now that the Democratic leaders in the Congress are becoming sensible of the great responsibility resting upon them to hold the party in the respect and confidence of the country.

Since this session began in December they have allowed themselves to engage in a species of hysteria mislabeled "humanitarianism," with the too evident purpose to implead votes from those to whom they would hand out many manners of doles from the public treasury.

They have known all along that their proposed paternalism was undemocratic in principle and un-American in practice under Democratic administration. But they were willing to take advantage of temporary suffering among a small part of the people to set up a precedent and a system of government subsidies to classes that, in the long run, would transform the United States into a "social republic" scarcely different from that of Soviet Russia.

Lame Duck Relief!
Louisville Courier-Journal.

The most asinine proposition advanced at the present session of Congress is that to increase the size of the House of Representatives from 435 to 475. The House is already too large, and to make it larger would be preposterous. The proposal is put forward by members from States which will lose one or two representatives in the new apportionment. Its only object is to keep $10,000 jobs for office hunters, to be effected by adding 40 more such jobs, to the taxpayers' pay-roll.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Public Inconvenienced by Taxicab Restrictions on F and G Streets, Says Ada Boyd Glassie.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to say, as one humble citizen, and with all respect to local authorities, that I think the new traffic regulations barring taxicabs from F and G streets between Ninth and Fifteenth streets, is a very foolish one, and will work hardship to the public, including many worthy men who are trying, especially in these hard times, to make an honest living, and not lengthen the city's "bread line." How can a taxi-driver always prove that he is answering a call? He may miss the person calling. I have missed my cab in crowded places. Traffic officers will have to be chasing up and down to identify legal entrants to the forbidden zone. Drivers will be in such a hurry to get out that they will become careless, regardless of pedestrians. Neither will they be able to gather as many and frequent fares, as by these chance calls on a curb.

As for the public, what about a rainy evening, when a theatergoer wishes to get a cab to ride home? He must spend an unnecessary nickel for a call; and the phone may be busy, with people standing in line to make similar calls; and thus lose a half hour, or hour, or pay to have a cab wait for him—but the cab can't wait that long. This is only one of the inconveniences such regulations entail. One could enumerate many others.

F and G streets are mainly, nay, wholly, business streets "Pleasure vehicles," as the picture in today's Post has it, do not need to parade down F and G streets. They have the Speedway, Rock Creek Park and many beautiful roads in the open country. Public hacks facilitate business as well as pleasure, and should be easily reached when needed.

Alleged Expert Discusses Art of Beer Drinking as Practiced Somewhere in Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Coming as I do from a long line of distinguished beer drinkers I resent the implications made by Mr. MacGowan in calling Mr. John J. Daly to task for the use of the word "quaff," in describing scenes from the beer-capital at Munich. Mr. MacGowan says the word should be "guzzle." I refer him to Reginald De Koven's operetta, "Robin Hood," where the song has it, "Oh, will ye quaff with me, my lads," &c.

Quaff is the right word. It means to drink with relish—and copiously. There used to be quaffing-pots in the old days, drinking vessels not at all like the "growler," which was nothing more than a tin can used by workingmen.

"Guzzle" means to swallow hastily, or greedily; to gulp. A good beer drinker never guzzled any more than he sipped. I hope you set the young generation straight on this.

As for the beaker, Mr. Daly is wrong and Mr. MacGowan is right. What both of them mean is the "seidel." Then, of course, there was the stein—and the stein song. Beer drinking is an art, and as such it should not be defamed.

Make It Possible for Boys to Join Boy Scouts—Prep Training for Citizenship.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are about 600,000 boys arriving at the proper age for membership each year in the Boy Scouts organization. What a magnificent young manhood would be coming into full citizenship each year were it possible for all of them to enjoy that training! The required pledge is held as sacred and, lived up to, is a guarantee that clean language, clean habits and clean morals are assured for life, and a spirit of helpfulness is emphasized in daily practice. Respect for his superiors, his fellows and himself, for the value of obedience and of team work—these and many other things are not merely suggested, but they are taught and practiced daily. Too young to go to the Government summer training camps, in their camp experiences they get what might be called a "prep" course in military training, so that when old enough to take advantage of the "manhood stuff," as they have called it, they are not "hayfoot rookies," but can "keep rank" from the first day. Every opportunity should be given to those boys to develop that right-class citizenship toward which they are being guided, which this nation will always need if it is not to "perish from the earth."

Foreign Peoples Would Not Worry if United States Had Biggest Navy of All.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to thank you, in the name as I believe of many defense-minded Americans, for the persistent vigor with which you urge that the United States Navy be built up to the London Treaty limit.

The Post truly says, "The temper of the American people has been tested often enough to make it evident that they will not tolerate neglect of naval defense."

As I have before now remarked in communications to The Post the greatness and political prestige of our republic call for a Navy superior to all the rest. And I do not think that the peoples—not the professional diplomats but the peoples—of the Old World would worry to any great extent, no matter how large a Navy we built.

"Quaff," "Beaker" and "Stein" Are Respectable Words, but "Guzzle" Is a Product of These Degenerate Times, Says Representative Schafer, of Milwaukee.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I do not think any Scotchman needs instruction as to the propriety of the use of "quaff," which is an eminently respectable word, as is also the word "beaker" and the now obsolete "stein." The word "guzzle," about which Mr. MacGowan inquires, has come into common use only since the enactment of the prohibition law.

MACHINE SHOWS EYE IS QUICK AS BRAIN

Minneapolis Professor Measures Speed With Which Student Reads Book.

CAMERA IS USED ALSO

Minneapolis, Feb. 13.—The brain is no quicker than the eye, Prof. Miles A. Tinker, assistant professor in the department of psychology at the University of Minnesota has proven.

He is using a machine that records the eye movements of a person reading, makes a photographic chart of the length of time spent on each word, the times a reader lingers over a word and the instances in which he goes over a line to graph its meaning.

The student on whom an experiment is being conducted is seated in a darkened room with his head fixed in position by a system of pads as he reads. A dot of light coming through a tiny hole in the wall from special equipment in an adjoining room, strikes a mirror and is reflected onto his eyeball. From the eyeball is projected the story of his reading to a long, enlarging camera, where a moving film records the story of his reading. The dots of light come at intervals of one-fiftieth of a second.

The machine, which was invented some years ago by Raymond Dodge, has been made more efficient and was built according to specifications given R. O. Dauphin, director of the university's equipment shop by Prof. Tinker.

Psychologists have studied reading habits because of their theory that much of the poor work done by students can be explained by their inefficiency as readers. Prof. Tinker's apparatus and experiments will tell psychologists about reading habits and the mechanics of reading that have not hitherto been known.

Lobbyists' Absence Irks Legislators

Wisconsin Officials Complain They No Longer Are Invited to Free Meals.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 13.—For years any hungry legislator could post himself in almost any hotel lobby here and along would come some big-hearted lobbyist with an invitation to breakfast, luncheon or dinner. Sometimes they entertained the political boys in groups, with flowers on the table, and when some inquiring person wanted to know whom to thank he was told that a fellow legislator was giving a birthday party.

In the rush of hospitality two years ago it was little less than amazing how many lawmakers had birthdays. An accurate account would show that some members had several birthdays during the legislative session. The parties varied from public dining rooms to large ample rooms where cold meats, salads, cheese and other things were served on long tables.

But legislating, it appears, is not what it used to be. One of the political boys who orders big steaks when somebody else is paying the bill and slips around to a cafeteria when he pays his own bill, had this to say: "It is going on three weeks and I haven't eaten one free meal. What's the matter with the lobbyists, anyway?" Others made the same dismal report.

Chicago Pupils War on "Stick-Ups"

Chicago, Feb. 13.—More than 40 high school boys and girls met in the offices of the Chicago Association of Commerce to go on record officially as being opposed to the prevalency of stickups.

This academic protest has no relation whatever to the war against crime waged by the police and the "Secret Six" and kindred organizations. The boys and girls are out to eliminate one of the causes of early mortality of school teachers—chewing gum in classrooms and dropping it on the floor.

The antigum crusade is one of the manifold phases of the annual clean-up, paint-up campaign, held every year under the sponsorship of the Association of Commerce. This year's week will begin April 22.

NUTT SCORES BLAINE AS LOOSE-TONGUED

ter dollars to the last two political campaigns?'

"Construed as Charge."

"While the remark was worded as a question, it implied that the senator was prepared to answer it affirmatively. It was construed by the press as a flat charge that postoffice lessors had contributed this tremendous sum to the Coolidge and Hoover campaigns. Apparently this was what Senator Blaine intended as he has made no effort to correct this flagrantly false statement.

"The facts are these: I have carefully checked my records to ascertain what, if any, contributions were received from the individuals who have figured in the leases of postoffice quarters. I find that on October 23, 1928, Mr. J. A. Love, Fourth and Pine streets, St. Louis, Mo., contributed $200.

"This contribution was secured through the organization in St. Louis and was sent to me with the understanding that I would immediately return it to the Missouri Republican State committee, which was done.

"Statements on File."

"This is the only contribution that has ever been received since I have been treasurer of the national committee from any one who to my knowledge has in any way figured in the leases of postoffice quarters.

"Complete statements are on file at the Capitol showing every contribution of $1 or more that I have received as treasurer of the Republican national committee. These records are public. They may be examined by Senator Blaine or any one else.

"Considering that the charges fathered by Senator Blaine contain not a shadow of truth, I presume that he did not avail himself of these records. Such an omission was inexcusable. It is just another instance of a loose-tongued senator making statements which are false."

Later Representative Maas (Republican), Minnesota, said the statement last night by Postmaster General Brown was a "last, desperate and futile attempt by the Postoffice Department to discredit the Senate committee and block a thoroughgoing investigation of the whole postoffice lease evil."

Mr. Maas, who instigated the investigation of postoffice leases, added in a formal statement: "The Brown reply is a perfect example of the smoke screen tactics pursued by the Postoffice Department from the very beginning."

BUDGETS HELP OUT MODEST INCOMES

Food Buying and Selection Problems Made Easy by Market Basket.

COSTS TEND DOWNWARD

Much satisfaction is expressed in the letters from readers of the Food and Home Economics Page of The Washington Post about the suggestions being made in "The Market Basket," put out weekly by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the woman's division of the President's emergency committee for unemployment.

According to these letters from readers this service is proving a real help in food buying and selection problems. It is pointed out in one of these letters that a vote of thanks is due to the merchants of the city and the territory covered by The Washington Post for their cooperation in the way of all possible reductions, attractive displays to remind women of food selection possibilities and policy to provide for choice foods of definite nutrition value.

Spending Wisely Big Problem.

How to spend the family income wisely and well is another problem with which the Bureau of Home Economics is wrestling for the benefit of the home makers of the Nation. Practical working budgets for the families with annual incomes ranging from $1,280 to $2,550 have been collected recently by the bureau. It was found that budgets developed by different organizations through the country had been designed in many cases to fit the needs of the average or census family, which includes a father, mother and three children.

However, a few spending plans are available for families of two, three and four, with incomes ranging from $1,341 to $2,251. These budgets are now ready for distribution to the public.

The allowances for food, clothing, shelter, operating expenses and saving have been carefully calculated in the several budgets recommended by the bureau, in the opinion of Dr. Faith Williams, of the bureau.

Budget for $1,525.

"One budget for a family of five with an income of $1,525 a year has proved especially helpful to the many families who have used it," Dr. Williams declares. "The food allowance for the year is $638.88. School lunches are $14.80 and rent is $318.00. The clothing for the family is as follows: Father, $55; mother, $45; son, 14 years old, $40; daughter, 12 years old, $43; baby, 3 years old, $17, and upkeep of clothes is quoted at $15.

"The sum set aside for furniture is $41.70, and for insurance, $28.60. Operating expenses, which include, fuel, light, transportation, school supplies, and miscellaneous, amount to $163.77. Leisure time activities have not been overlooked. Six dollars and sixteen cents has been allowed for the daily newspaper, $12 for church or Sunday school, and $56.47 for recreation. Health is allotted $8.52 for the year, and savings, $26. The total comes to $1,524.90, which permits of a monthly expenditure of $127.09."

These figures apply to conditions in Cincinnati, Ohio, in January, 1931, and were prepared by the League of Women Voters of that city.

"The money set aside for food in this budget is more than that which is being recommended by the bureau for the present emergency situation, Dr. Williams points out. If a family of five chooses to follow the food guide recently developed by the bureau—a diet which is entirely adequate from the standpoint of vitamins, minerals and calories—the food allowance can be reduced to $331.76 a year. This figure is an average, collected in fourteen leading cities throughout the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast.

Basket Here Costs $6.74.

The most recent retail food quotations, gathered by the bureau during the last week in January, indicates that the cost is tending downward. The average cost is $6.55 for filling a week's market basket for a family of five—as outlined below. Pittsburgh is the least expensive with a price of $5.88 and New York City is $7.03. The other cities in which the prices were obtained are listed as follows: Detroit, $6.23; Chicago, $6.31; St. Louis, $6.33; Los Angeles, $6.37; Philadelphia, $6.39; Kansas City, Mo., $6.54; Dallas, $6.55; Charlotte, N. C., $6.62; Boston, $6.74; Washington, D. C., $6.89; New Orleans, $6.91; Atlanta, $6.97.

A family of five, including father, mother and three children, should buy every week:

Flour and cereal (1½ lbs. bread equals 1 lb. cereal)	17-24 lbs.
Whole fresh milk	23-28 qts.
Or canned unsweetened milk	23-28 tall cans
Potatoes	15-20 lbs.
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter	1-2 lbs.

Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits	15-18 lbs.
Fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarine, butter, &c.	2½ lbs.
Sugar and molasses	3 lbs.
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs (1 dozen eggs approximates 1 lb.)	5-7 lbs.

Coffee	1 lb.
Tea	¼ lb.

Let stand 5 minutes. Add vanilla. Then spread on cake. Yield: Sufficient for 1 layer cake.

Coot Cooked Right Good as Wild Duck

Real Gastronomic Treat, Say Those Who Hunt and Find Mudhen.

Many hunters find the common coot, or mudhen, a real gastronomic treat, and where ducks and geese are scarce the coot can very well take their place. For that matter biologists of the United States Department of Agriculture say that the coot is not to be despised as food under any circumstances. An excellent recipe for cooking coot is furnished by George E. Mushbach, superintendent of the Bear River migratory bird refuge, maintained by the Biological Survey in the northern marshes of Great Salt Lake, Utah. Mr. Mushbach says that cooked in the following manner, coot is equal to any duck we have:

Skin the birds and cut off legs and breast. Split breast in two parts. Wash all parts thoroughly in cold water and, if desired, soak them a few hours in salt or soda water, but this is not necessary as skinned coot has no strong or unpleasant flavor. Roll damp meat in flour and place in frying pan over a slow fire. Cover pan and allow to fry slowly in either bacon grease or lard.

Keep pan covered and after meat has cooked for about 30 minutes, add a generous lump of butter. Get pan hot and then pour in a half to one cup of cold water (quantity to be gauged by size of pan and number to be served). Replace tight cover and allow to steam about a minute or two. Remove meat, add sufficient flour to thicken gravy and serve. Sounds mighty tempting!

Chili Con-Carne Made From Simple Recipe

1 tablespoon butter.
1 pound ground beef.
1 onion.
¼ teaspoon chili powder.
1 medium can oven baked red kidney beans.
1 small can cream of tomato soup.
1 teaspoon salt.

Brown beef in skillet with butter and chopped onion. Add oven baked kidney beans and stir for several minutes. Pour over this the cream of tomato soup, and add salt and chili powder. Simmer for 15 to 25 minutes. The chili powder may be omitted if desired, and a dash of pepper substituted. Serve with baked potatoes.

Versatile Sliced Ham Economical

Thing to Do Is to Buy a Whole Piece and Have It Divided.

Unexpected guests, the desire for something different, or the thought of true economy might suggest the ever versatile slice of ham. Now, I suppose you wonder why I state "true economy," for we are all agreed that the slice is the most expensive piece in the ham; that is, when it is purchased as such, but when you buy a whole ham and have the retailer cut it into its various sections, the shank, center slices and butt, you pay no premium for these choice cuts and there is economy.

The center section of a 10 to 12 pound ham offers three to four thick slices or five to six slices cut average thickness. These tender, delicate pieces take but a short time to cook, and because of the care in selection and preparation of these hams, are uniformly tender and delicious.

For breakfast there are a few meats that add such fragrance and cheer to the dull winter mornings as does a tasty pan broiled ham steak served with fried, poached or soft cooked eggs.

WINTER VEGETABLES SHOULD BE VARIED

With Little Ingenuity They Can Be Made to Seem Different Foods.

REPETITION IS TIRESOME

In our large city markets many of the best-liked vegetables are to be had the year around. But this is not the case in smaller places, and sometimes the family gets very tired of the repetition of the few that are available. A little ingenuity, however, will dress some of these up so that they seem like entirely different foods, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture.

Take carrots, for example. Carrots sliced and fried with apples are a pleasant change. Or scalloped in layers with apples. Or mashed carrots. Instead of sliced carrots or carrots in "shoestring" pieces, carrots served whole with parsley butter are attractive. The flecks of green over the yellow give a pretty color combination, and the lemon in the parsley butter adds a pleasing flavor.

Serving of Celery.

Celery need not always be served as raw crisp hearts with salt. The outside stalks are often better cooked. They may be cut in inch lengths, mixed with well-seasoned meat drippings, put in a shallow pan and baked or "braised" until tender. Celery fritters are another possibility. Have plain stewed celery once in a while, either seasoned with butter, salt and pepper or served with a white sauce or a sauce made from the liquor in which the celery was cooked. Celery and canned tomatoes are good cooked together in about equal parts, or celery and sliced or diced white turnips.

Cabbage has no end of possibilities. Try it shredded, simmered in milk for five minutes, then thickened slightly with blended flour and butter, salt and a little cream added. Scalloped cabbage and apples may be new to you. Cabbage, spaghetti and cheese, covered with buttered crumbs, will appeal to every one. If you can get red cabbage or Chinese cabbage once in a while, you have what seems like a brand new vegetable. Don't forget cabbage salads. Chopped raw cabbage with cream cheese dressing is delicious, and so is pineapple and cabbage salad with mayonnaise. Cabbage slaw, hot or cold, is a form of cabbage salad.

Canned Corn on Toast.

Canned corn should be kept in mind. Besides using it in corn custard and corn fritters, you can combine it with tomato and grated cheese and serve it on toast. Corn chowder is made of milk, potatoes and canned corn, with onion, salt pork and parsley for flavor and color.

Onions we have always with us—boiled, baked, creamed, French fried, stuffed or combined with tomatoes or fried with apples. There are still other ways in which onions can be used as the main vegetable.

Salsify or oyster plant, parsnips, beets, both stored and canned; Jerusalem artichokes, mushrooms, and some of the dried legumes, such as lentils, dried limas, dried navy and kidney beans and peas, are among the winter vegetables which vary monotony. Not all of these furnish vitamins in amounts comparable to the vegetables of green or yellow color, so they are better looked upon as supplements to other foods. With a raw vegetable salad, however, any of the last list may be introduced from time to time for the sake of change.

SIMPLE RULES MAKE ROAST BEEF RIGHT

Correct Temperature Is Held Necessary; Control of Oven Big Boon.

SALT BEFORE COOKING

Is it just chance when the roast of beef or pork or lamb comes from the oven, crisply brown and done to a turn? Is the outside of the roast of beef that rich brown and does each slice toward the center become a little more delicately pink? The roast may be just right if a few simple rules which have been worked out scientifically are followed, according to the Home Economics Department, National Live Stock and Meat Board. Considerable time has been devoted in the last few years to experimental meat cookery and the results which have been obtained are of inestimable value to the housewife.

In all roasting the temperature must be right and the cooking must be carried on for the correct amount of time. The oven control is a boon to housewives in turning out perfect roasts.

For all roasts the oven should be hot to start with; for beef and lamb the temperature should be 525 degrees Fahrenheit, and for pork a temperature of 480 degrees Fahrenheit is recommended.

Temperature Reduced.

The roast is put in the oven and browned or seared at these temperatures and then the heat is reduced to a moderate temperature—350 degrees Fahrenheit—and the cooking is then continued at that temperature until the roast is done.

How long should a roast be cooked? That depends on the kind of meat. Pork is always cooked well done. Beef may be roasted rare, medium or well done, according to personal preference. Some persons like lamb a little underdone, but usually it is cooked to the well-done stage.

About 30 minutes per pound should be allowed for cooking a pork roast—this in addition to the searing period of 15 minutes. Roast beef is seared from 20 to 30 minutes, and then, for a rare roast, 16 minutes per pound is allowed; for a medium well-done roast, 22 minutes per pound, and for a well-done roast, 30 minutes per pound. Lamb requires 30 minutes per pound to be well done.

Should Be Salted First.

According to the best authorities, a roast should be salted before it is put in the oven. A better flavor is imparted to the meat if the salt has a chance to penetrate to the interior of the roast.

The way the roast is put in the oven has an important bearing on the final results. The roast should always be put in the oven with the fat side up. The fat melts and bastes the roast and so removes that bother. The leg of lamb is put in the pan, skin side down, and that thin, papery covering known as the fell should not be removed, as the roast holds its shape better and there is less shrinkage.

The roasting pan should not be covered at any time during the roasting period, nor should any water be added.

The observance of these rules will insure a roast that is tender, juicy and evenly cooked throughout.

Southern Spoon Bread.

One tea cup of white corn meal. Sift twice. Add a little salt. Scald the meal with a full cup of boiling hot water, into this stir 1 cup of cold mashed rice or grits, 3 well beaten eggs, 1 tablespoon of melted butter, 1½ cups of milk, 2 teaspoons of yeast powder. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for about 20 minutes or more, testing with a straw. Serve hot.

EVEN BAKED APPLES TASTE BETTER

You will never know the true value of your own good cooking until you do it electrically. Even so simple a dish as baked apples will have an entirely new flavor because electric cookery does not dry up the natural juices of foods.

It is well known among women who are now doing their cooking by "Matchless Service" that foods go farther and taste better. The modern, electric way to cook means economies in food purchases . . . economies in fuel cost.

The next time you visit your neighborhood electric shop, be sure to ask about the low cost of electric cookery . . . and above all, learn more about this flameless, odorless, sootless method of better cooking.

Using Left-Overs Test Thrift of All Housewives

Trained Women Like to Boast of Economical Cooking; Household Budget Will Reflect Their Energy and Thought in This Direction.

Economical cooking is the boast of the clever and well-trained housewife, whether she gets her training in a school of home economics or in her own kitchen. The household budget may be made a reflection of the thrifty housewife.

Nor are the dishes made from vegetables, fruits, meats and puddings to be scorned as a "poor man's meal." Even the excuse of camouflaging left-overs is unnecessary. They can be made palatable and attractive, and, used as the base served with either a thin or medium white sauce, as the type of dish demands, they are essentially nutritious.

A creamed meat served on toast may be garnished with a sprig of parsley, or it may be served in a timbal or rosetta patty.

Do not scrap your left-over vegetables. Serve them either in a cream soup these cold winter days or creamed as a side dish. Green beans, carrots, asparagus, onions, cabbage, potatoes and cauliflower lend themselves to this style with a thin white sauce. This sauce is best made with evaporated milk.

In a cream vegetable soup or in a creamed vegetable dish you are giving your family important nutrition protection. This is one way of introducing milk into the daily menu. The thrifty housewife is never without several cans of evaporated milk nowadays and, since this is much more economical than bottled milk, she is caging two thrifty birds with one stone, by planning a menu of creamed left-over dishes.

Cream of Vegetable Soup.

Double recipe of thin white sauce.
⅛ teaspoon celery salt.
1 teaspoon onion juice, if desired.
½ tablespoon chopped parsley, if desired.

Add the seasonings and sieved vegetable to the hot white sauce; keep hot over boiling water until ready to serve. Serve piping hot with a dash of paprika. Yield: Six servings. Variation: If there is any vegetable liquor available it may be substituted for the boiling water called for in the recipe of thin white sauce.

Creamed Vegetables.

3 cups diced or sliced cooked vegetables.
½ the recipe of thin white sauce.

Such vegetables as carrots, green beans, asparagus, onions, cabbage, potatoes and cauliflower are particularly suitable to be creamed. White sauce for creaming vegetables is improved if vegetable liquor is substituted for boiling water called for in the white sauce recipe. Yield: Six servings.

Thin White Sauce.

1 tablespoon butter.
1 teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup evaporated milk.

Melt butter in top of double boiler placed directly over flame. Add salt, pepper and flour and mix thoroughly. Do not let flour brown. Add water, stirring to keep smooth. Cook directly over flame two minutes, stirring constantly. Add milk and continue cooking over hot water five minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Yield: 1¾ cups. Variation: This may be used as a cream sauce for left-over cooked vegetables, left-over meats or cream soups.

Creamed Meats.

1¾ cups of cubed cooked meat.
1 recipe thin white sauce.

Cut the meat in ½-inch cubes. Add to the hot white sauce and mix well. Serve hot on toast or mashed potatoes and garnish with parsley or pimiento. Yield: 6 servings.

A la king variations may be made by adding ½ to 1 cup of cooked pepper or cooked, diced celery; 1 cup of mushrooms, chopped and sauted for 5 minutes in 1 tablespoon butter; ¼ cup shredded pimiento or ½ cup chopped, hard cooked eggs. These may be used in any desired combination. Variation may also be obtained by substituting meat broth (or bouillon cubes plus water) for the water called for in the thin white sauce recipe.

Creole Pork Includes Tomatoes, Spaghetti

1 small can cream of tomato soup.
1 small can cooked spaghetti.
1 lb. ground raw pork.
1 tablespoon butter.
2 onions.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ lb. grated cheese.
½ cup grated crumbs.

Chop onions fine and cook with ground pork until brown. Drain off excess fat and add cooked spaghetti, cream of tomato soup, and cheese. Turn into baking dish and cover with crumbs and butter. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F.

Apple Butter Ice Box Cake Appealing

½ pint whipping cream.
½ cup pure apple butter.
30 vanilla wafers.
Chopped nuts.

Whip cream and fold in apple butter. Spread each wafer with this mixture, placing one on top of another, until all the wafers are used, cover outside of the roll with cream mixture, sprinkle with chopped nuts and place in refrigerator for about three hours. Cut in diagonal slices and serve.

Strawberry, Cherry or Raspberry Preserves

(Contributed by Mrs. Florence P. Percy, Washington.)

Two pounds of capped strawberries to two pounds of granulated sugar. Wash strawberries, put with sugar in a saucepan on back of stove, or over very little heat; leave until sugar is melted and berries begin to cook, then draw saucepan to hot part of stove with lid or "hot plate" underneath to prevent burning. Cook for 20 minutes boiling hard; stir to prevent burning; skim carefully; leave in saucepan overnight and put in fruit jars the next morning when cool. All froth should be removed.

For good results cook only two pounds of berries at a time. This quantity will make about one quart of preserves. By this method they retain the taste of fresh berries.

Griddle Cakes.
(16 to 24 cakes).

1 cup milk.
1½ cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
1 to 2 tablespoons fat.
1 egg.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
0 to 1 tablespoon sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.

SAVORY SAUSAGE INVITES APPETITE

Especially Welcome During Cold Days of Winter; Fragrance Spicy.

SPLENDID FOR LUNCHEON

Cold weather sharpens appetites which may be appeased in no better way than with savory sausages. Just a whiff of their spicy fragrance is enough to make the mouth water.

When cooking sausage in casings, always be sure to prick the skins with a sharp-tined fork to prevent bursting. If cooking in bulk, shape the sausage meat into cakes. Many manufacturers put bulk sausage up in rolls or loaves which may be cut the desired thickness with a knife. A new idea in sausages advanced recently by a manufacturer is the addition of nut meats to the sausage meat. The makers say that the nuts make it necessary to chew the sausage thoroughly, thereby getting all the goodness of its flavor.

An old-fashioned method of cooking sausages in the country, which is their native habitat, is to serve them with cream gravy. Place the sausages in a cold frying-pan and cook rather slowly until the sausages are nicely browned on all sides.

When done remove the sausages to a hot platter. Pour off all but one tablespoon of fat, add one tablespoon of flour and cook one minute, stirring all the time. Then gradually add one cup of milk, stirring all the time. When the gravy is boiling and of a nice creamy consistency, season with salt and pepper to taste, pour over the sausages and serve.

A casserole of browned sausages, parboiled onions, carrots and peppers with a cover of mashed sweet potatoes browned in the oven is a delicious luncheon dish.

That You'll Find Worth Reading

Door Open to Revision of the Constitution

The possibility of a Constitutional Convention and the method by which it may be called, the way for that being already open, is discussed in this article. The wets seem to be in a strategic position, but will they force the issue is another matter. No doubt this will be one of the things discussed at the approaching meeting of national Democratic leaders soon to assemble in Washington.

When Senator Hansbrough Locked Horns With Uncle Joe Cannon

This, the second of the reminiscent articles of Senator Hansbrough, tells of Ben Tillman's characteristic attack which forced the irrigation bill through. Plans for the campaign are laid around the dinner table in the home of Senator Newlands, where Hansbrough is startled to find himself chosen leader.

Washington's Mysterious Tunnels

The subterranean pathway by which Dolly Madison had planned to escape from the Capital during the War of 1812 furnished the background for a sinister attempt to kidnap Lincoln. Other strange passageways are described in this article dealing with a little known phase of Washington's history.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

In 1920 the soldier's star touched its apogee and nadir and the presidential nomination was denied him. This article tells of the maneuvers at the Chicago Republican convention from Gen. Wood's viewpoint. He was one of the outstanding possibilities when the session opened.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Envoy Amaral Transferred to Post in Japan

Who Will Succeed Him as Ambassador Here Not Yet Announced.

CONFIRMING rumors which have made the rounds for some time, news of the departure of the Brazilian Ambassador, Senhor S. Gurgel do Amaral is now a certainty. He will be Ambassador to Japan and is preparing to leave Washington in about a month.

One of Washington's most attractive diplomats, he will be greatly missed here. Senhor do Amaral will sail from New York about March 12, going by way of the Panama Canal and the Pacific to the Far East.

He denies the veracity of the stories which have been printed in Washington concerning the lowering of the status of the embassy here to a legation. He says that his country will continue to be represented in Washington by an ambassador.

It has been stated that in accordance with the policies of the new government at Rio, sweeping changes in the interests of economy would necessitate a change in representation here, as well as at most capitals, and a successor would be appointed as minister and not ambassador.

The name of Senhor do Amaral's successor is being withheld by the State Department, awaiting confirmation by President Hoover. This much is known, however, that it will not be Senhor Helio Lobo, a member of the Brazilian Senate, who has been mentioned for the post, having leaped into prominence for his defense of the Bolivian attitude in the Tacna-Arica dispute.

Longworths' Daughter Has Party Today

Valentine Luncheon Will Be Given at Home of Paulina.

Prepared to act as hostess at her very own birthday, Paulina Longworth, daughter of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, and one of the country's most interesting little girls, will entertain at luncheon today. The "valentine baby," as she is still known, is six years old.

According to Mrs. Longworth, the small group who will assemble at the Longworth home on Massachusetts avenue today for the birthday feast will be of "assorted ages." Paulina, bright-eyed and clever, is fully capable of taking care of the conversation with any age. Intellectually, she lives up to the things expected of her.

Paulina entered school last fall in Cincinnati, which is her home when Congress is not in session. At Christmas time she came to Washington and since then has been attending school here.

She is a familiar sight to the proprietors of Washington's small shops. Accompanied by her governess, she often does her own shopping, picking out articles of clothing for herself. She frequently visits the Capitol to watch her father preside over the House of Representatives.

Another of the country's most prominent children, Peggy Ann Hoover, will soon celebrate her birthday. Like Paulina, her anniversary falls on the anniversary of a patron saint—St. Patrick's Day, when she will be 5 years old.

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH the pronouncement by Pope Pius XI, carried to every part of this Nation by the greatest network of stations yet assembled, and heard in the far corners of the world, has been conceded by radio engineers to be the supreme achievement up to this time, young Miss Radio is still a coquettish lady.

For instance, London, which is about 1,200 miles from Rome, received HVJ's signals with such indifferent success that engineers of the British Broadcasting Corporation finally turned to an American station, 2XAD, Schenectady. The Pope's voice was carried all the way across the Atlantic and back again for the benefit of English listeners. Atmospheric conditions usually preclude good reception between Rome and London around sunset.

On the other hand, Melbourne, Australia, reported perfect reception of the signals. Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and Bogota, Colombia, heard every word, while Madrid, Spain, 1,300 miles away, had difficulty receiving the signals. Manila, Philippine Islands, lost the first part of the program, due to fading, but heard the English translation of the Pope's address perfectly.

Reception was as perfect as any yet attained in the United Statees.

The Vatican City station, HVJ, will be on the air daily on the 19.84 meters wave length. Operation commenced at 9:30 a. m. (Eastern standard time) yesterday.

PERFECT reception of the Pope's message was insured the high dignitaries of the church, assembled in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, when Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, gave permission to Vincent P. Callahan, of the National Broadcasting Co., to install a direct telephone line and place a loud speaker directly over the altar.

Every one in the church heard each word distinctly, the pronouncement becoming a part of the solemn high mass being celebrated.

Mr. Callahan, who conceived the idea, was apprehensive, because it was probably the first time in the history of the Catholic Church that a mass has been interrupted by a radio presentation.

SCENES from current plays on Broadway, with introductions by prominent theatrical personages, will be heard tonight in the Drama League (WRC, 11:30 p. m.). "Green Pastures," "Green Grow the Lilacs" and "Once in a Lifetime" will be drawn upon for material.

The regular meeting of the Washington Radio Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Department of Commerce Building. J. W. Wright will be the speaker.

The Susan B. Anthony Foundation has arranged for a national broadcast from the studios of Station WMAL on "Susan B. Anthony—the Woman of the Ages" today (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.)

A HOMEY touch was added to President Hoover's Lincoln Day radio address when a ship's clock in his study sounded six bells a few minutes after the broadcast began.

Representative Louis C. Cramton, of Michigan, will give his views on relief for drought sufferers in reply to Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, who spoke last Saturday evening. (WMAL, 9:30 p. m.)

Rudolf Schramm will feature three songs which he brought back from Germany last summer when he presents his concert ensemble this evening. (WRC, 6:15 p. m.) They are "Oh, Donna Clara," "Just a Gigolo" and "Scheint der Mon ouf Venedig." A trumpet solo, "The Last Rose of Summer," is another feature.

Four leaders of religious thought will give their reactions to present-day religious trends this afternoon. (WRC, 2 p. m.)

A "silent" manuscript, guaranteed crackleproof, has been developed for the use of Dr. Julius Klein in his weekly talks. It is a cotton-processed fabric, soft and pliable, on which addresses may be typed without blurring.

Dare Interprets the MODE

Paris, Feb. 13.

CINDERELLA'S glass slipper was never more dainty nor fragile than my lady's little boudoir slipper of today. And I'll bet you when she stubbed her toe (Oh, something a lovely lady never does, oh, no), she didn't have any more slipper left than milady modern has when she stubs her toe in a boudoir slipper. Maybe that's why so many of them don't have toes any more, do you suppose? In fact, the less there is to a boudoir slipper, the more there is, in style value, evidently. Most of them seem to consist of an attractively shaped sole, an excitingly high heel, and a few well-placed ribbons or beads or feathers. Nor need you doubt for a moment the fact that walking in them is a matter of perfect balance exactly as is walking on stilts • • • because the slippers themselves offer no support anywhere; in fact, offer many a hazard that leaves you figuring out new ways of balancing yourself.

All of which is very amusing, very whimsical, very feminine, and not in the least disconcerting to the wearer. If anything is disconcerting it is the fragility of a modern boudoir slipper which dare not be touched with anything but art gum for cleaning • • • try and clean a crepe de chine or a suede pair with anything else, and you'll find out why!

• • • •

And you know you never have enough boudoir slippers, nobody has unless some nice little bird comes along and tells you how to make them! And that is what Dah-ray tells you how to do in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. Yes, lovely boudoir slippers that don't look the least bit homemade or anything of the sort; in fact, look as though they just came from a French boulevard show window. You can have a boudoir slipper for your every mood and your every gown, without breaking down the old pocketbook, at all. Better send for that leaflet!

• • • •

Did I ever tell you about the black suede muff lined in pink suede which shows just the tiniest bit along the edges of two little pointed flaps? These flaps made the bag part of the muff, and then 8-inch black suede pull-on gloves with a tuck and a cuff of pink matched the muff. It may or it may not be cold where you are this minute, but right this minute where I am writing this everybody who did not buy a muff the early part of the season is sorry. . . .

Hardly any printed blouses disport themselves in the fashion world this season, excepting those in plaid and checked linen for sports wear. I used to like printed chiffon blouses, too, when they were just exactly right for the ensemble with which they were being worn.

• • • •

And now an opera bag something like the one mother used, which slips over the wrist and leaves the hand free to manage one's train if you go in for trains. Some smart women do, but either for the most formal sort of affairs or on their more elaborate tea gowns—which, of course, don't require an opera bag!

• • • •

Tomorrow, again, we have Dare's weekly fashion letter. By all means look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au Revoir.

FRANCES M'DONALD

Interfering Families.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I read your column religiously and want to say a few words about family interference in love affairs. When I started in college at 17 I fell madly in love. The man was poor and had not been brought up in the same social stratum as I, but what a man he was! However, one member of my family took a personal dislike to him and the others, without knowing him at all, followed the leader. I was forbidden to see him so I met him outside. He finished college the next year and got a job, poor pay to start, but excellent chances of advancement. He begged me to marry him. Poor spineless creature that I was I could not break with my family, so he went away without me. We wrote but that caused more family rows. They had nothing against him except he was poor and his social position was not equal to ours. The old line. Since then I have gone with men and more men and been bored stiff. I'm still searching for something—restless—dissatisfied. I've always wanted a home, children and the man I loved. He has advanced consistently, now makes as much and more than these men, socially our equals. What right had my family to keep me from happiness, "because I was too young to know my own mind?" I'm now over 26 years old with nothing to show for it. Tell girls to do their own deciding if their man has the same interests and if they truly love each other. If he has any ambition at all, go ahead and marry him despite family prejudices. What if she does have to do without a few things at the start. If he loves her he'll win for her and it won't be for long—the deprivations that seem so awful to interfering relatives. Marriage is nothing but a gamble anyway and you should get what happiness you can out of it if only for a short time.

A SEARCHER.

Well, where is the true love now? Why not get in touch with him? If he is still unclaimed, drop him a line and then sit tight and await results. But even if he is now otherwise disposed of do not jump to the conclusion that your family has deprived you of happiness. For most of the people who marry out of their class are unhappy if they do not actually part. And parents knowing the rule act accordingly, and although they sometimes err in the case of the exception to the rule, in most instances they are right.

You can not now simply because your attachment has endured assume that your marriage would have been happy. On the contrary the fact that in all these years he has made no effort toward reunion would seem to indicate that he is one of the type who place personal vanity above the thought of a woman's happiness or heartache. And the type is constitutionally unfitted for marriage and unable to make any woman happy.

As it is, you have a perfect memory rather than a nightmare of regret. So banish bitterness and make due allowance for the evanescent but persistent aura of first love's glamour. It is like soft candlelight making all things look beautiful, while marriage is the spotlight of reality revealing all things mercilessly as they are.

Be not too hard on your family. They may have spared you much.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Disturbing astrological influences are predicted for this date, with accompanying unrest and tension. Concentration will be difficult and time and money will be wasted in "pottering." If diffusion of thought and effort can be avoided, other conditions favor advancement and success.

The child born on this February 14 will be obedient, thoughtful, unselfish, dependable and of little worry to its parents. It will be a methodical worker at school and otherwise, and will take a pride in its work. It will have enough spunk to do its own fighting, although it will prefer peace.

You are introspective, egocentric and self-centered, and your mind and activities are always focused on yourself and your own particular interests. You catalogue the importance of people and things, according to the amount they benefit you personally. An impersonal attitude is difficult for you to assume, and you are incapable of comprehending the beauties of those things which only exist in the spiritual planes of thought. You are a slow moving, conservative and ruthlessly ambitious type. Woe be it to him who dares to interfere with the fulfillment of any of your cherished dreams! You know how to be spiteful, and resentment often distorts your judgment and kinder senses. You delight in what you believe is "getting even."

Your great saving grace is an amazing sense of duty. You never let any one down, when duty is pertering your conscience, although you do not always fill its demands with good grace or a smile. You resent, even implied criticisms of your conduct, no matter how guilty you may be. You are your own judge and jury. You snap your fingers at custom and tradition, and it can be truthfully said that you have little sentiment.

For the sake of harmony, you must be "boss" within the home, be you man or woman. Although you will aim to be fair, it will be difficult for your husband or wife, as the case may be, to talk things over with you, without a display of impatience or temper on your part.

Successful people born February 14: Samuel Osgood, first Postmaster General.

James Appleton, the father of prohibition.

The loaf should be hot through and the crumbs golden brown. Serve with tomato sauce.

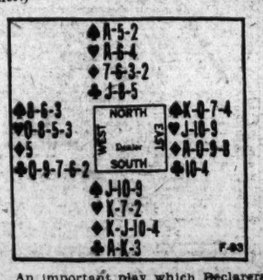
2 cloves
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge Beginner.)



An important play which Declarers frequently fail to make is trying to win an extra trick in dummy when that hand plays second.

Take the following hand at Auction Bridge:

South would be playing a contract of one No Trump, and as Contract Bridge three No Trumps. West would lead the Six of Clubs. If dummy played small from Jack and two small Clubs, East would play the Ten and force one of closed hand's top honors. When East obtained the lead, he would return a Club and the Declarer would be held to two Club tricks.

Declarer, after winning with a high Club, might put dummy in with the Ace of Hearts and lead a Diamond; but when he won the finesse and took the Diamond in the closed hand, he could not put dummy in again unless he gave up control of the Spade suit, and no matter how the hand was played, the Declarer would find himself in an extremely trying position. However, if he should play the Jack of Clubs on the first trick, he probably will assure himself of three Clubs and an extra Diamond lead, in which case game would be easy for him.

The point in the play is that Declarer wants to secure three Club tricks and also to obtain the lead in the dummy hand. West, by leading the Six of Clubs, shows three Clubs higher than the Six in his own hand. It is possible that they are Ten-Nine-Seven, and that East has the Queen; but it is not probable that West has opened a Ten-high suit. There is far more chance that West has led from the Queen and that East has either the Ten or Nine. So while the success of the play is not assured (it would be a loser in the one combination of cards above mentioned), it should be tried because if it succeeds it will give the Declarer not only three Club tricks but, what in this hand is a factor of great importance, an extra lead from the dummy hand.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Courting Punishment.

Confession, as we know, is good for the soul. To confess and be forgiven relieves one of the feeling of guilt which is so distressing a component in one's state of mind.

Children even more than adults feel the need for confession and for the subsequent relief from tension.

There is, of course, nothing which bottles up the child's feeling of guilt within him more effectively than fear of punishment or the withdrawal of love. The high-strung, sensitive child fears the latter much more than the former. Indeed, a child may be afraid to confess some particular sin which seems to him too dreadful to tell, and purposely perpetrates other misdeeds in order to bring down upon himself punishment for the wrong-doing which he is afraid to confess.

The director of a summer camp, who possessed generally the affectionate respect of his charges, observed a growing spirit of willful disobedience among a certain group of boys. They went out of their way to indulge in actions which they knew would bring penalties.

Investigation disclosed that these boys were surreptiously reading a supposedly forbidden book.

With unusual insight, the director gathered them together and read aloud from this very book, explaining that he considered their past interest entirely natural and wanted to discuss the book with them.

The children were at first frightened and uneasy, but as they learned that this was no trap but an honest effort to clear the atmosphere, they soon began to talk freely.

After two or three such meetings, the apparently unrelated disciplinary problems disappeared. Relieved of their guilt, the boys no longer felt the compulsion to court punishment.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me where I can purchase some English artichokes.

MRS. EDITH C.

If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, we will send you the names of three firms listing artichokes.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed flower. Also give the name of the inclosed bit of a shrub.

MRS. H. B. S.

The flower is a bloom of a species of rutabaga. The other specimen is not a shrub, but a rather young plant of columbine.

Please give me a list of five rather quick-growing vines for planting about a new suburban home. I do not object to vines that are rather coarse growers, because I want them only for immediate effect. Later, when my trees begin to grow, these vines will likely be removed.

MRS. THOMAS T. H.

Kudza vine, clematis paniculata (this variety should be placed, if possible, in some permanent place, as you will want to keep it), morning glory, Japanese hop vine and cardinal vine.

I am contemplating building a new home in April and, having plenty of ground, will have a choice of places for my cutting garden. Please explain the best location. I mean exposure.

MARY J. G.

The best situation for any flower garden is on a southern slope. I suggest slope because on a slope the drainage is usually perfect, and a southern garden has plenty of sun. If possible, make your garden open to the east and west, as this means morning and evening sun. When growing hardy perennials it is wise to arrange to have the plot protected from north winds. This can be arranged by planting a tall hedge across the northern boundary or by placing it in a location where it is sheltered by a building.

Please tell me if seeds of perennials sown this spring will bloom next season. I really want to know definitely about digitalis, hollyhocks, lupine, phlox and columbine.

MRS. ROBERT K. L.

Any of the varieties you have mentioned will bloom the second season. Sow the seeds where the plants are to remain and later thin them out and plant the surplus in other locations or give them to your neighbors.

Please tell me something about honesty. Is it a perennial and is it hard to raise? I mean could an amateur grow it successfully?

HARRIET T. O.

Yes, any amateur can grow honesty (lunaria). It is a perennial valued chiefly for the silvery transparent pods which follow the purple, crimson and white blossoms. It attains a height of 2 feet.

Please give me a list of eight of garden flowers that can be sown outdoors, as I have no room to start seeds in the house. I want, if possible, names of kinds which do not require transplanting. HELEN B.

The following seed may be sown in the open and the plants will mature before frost: Calendula, calliopsis, centaurea, cosmos (early), larkspur (annual), eschscholtzia (California poppy), petunia, zinnia, salpiglossis and lupine (annual).

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, Ph. D.

"Phoebe Hollis" means "Shining Holly-Tree." "Reginald Lee" means "Powerful-Judgment Meadow."

The family name "Moss" is derived from the Old English "mos" and ultimately from the Old Norse "mosi." Its full significance is "he who lives near the marsh." However, there is evidence that in some cases "Moss" is a modern abbreviated form of "Moses." The personal name "Moses" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "saved from the water." A certain Henry Moss is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls (1273), a Robertus del Mos is mentioned in an English document of the year 1279. The German equivalent of this name is "Moos." It has the same original meaning as the English form.

The family name "Ecker" has come down to us from two German sources. It is frequently the modern shortened form of "Agihari." "Aghihari" was an old personal name which may be translated "the warrior with the sharp sword." According to a more recent source, "Ecker" means "the one who lives at the corner."

"Davenport" is one of the oldest family names found in English records. Almost all the families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in the town of Davenport in East Cheshire. This place-name means "the gateway of the Daven (river)." The name of this river is a contraction of the two Celtic words "dwr" and "avon," each of which means "water" or "river." A certain Orm de Davenport is mentioned in an English record dated 1166. Concerning this name one may quote the following Old English saying: "In Cheshire there are Lees as plenty as fleas, and as many Davenports as dogs' tails." (The next article of this series will include an explanation of the family name "Lee.")

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XLII.

"I see what you people are up to," Dr. Alexander Lambert, of New York, exclaimed to a friend who was up in Republican politics. "You are going to let Wood and Lowden kill each other off and then nominate Harding."

"That's exactly what we're going to do," his friend replied.

The convention differed from similar gatherings of other years in one striking respect. No boss or group of bosses in the accepted sense dominated the proceedings. Men spoke in awed whispers of the influence of the absent Penrose; but it was a shadow at which they jumped. William Barnes and Murray Crane, who had played so potent a part in the 1912 convention, wandered about like lost children. Smoot was an astute counsellor, but no boss. New, of Indiana; Hert, of Kentucky, were agile manipulators, but could neither drive nor lead. Everybody like Will Hayes, but he had persistently declared that his function as chairman of the national committee was to "elect, not select" the candidate.

The delegates looked in vain for some resolute soul to tell them what to think. What about the money scandal? What was the public saying about it? Had Borah's investigation eliminated both Lowden and Wood? There was speculation about a possible dark horse. Politicians talked nervously about Hoover. None of them wanted Hoover, but they recognized unhappily that a considerable portion of the public did; and there was no telling what mad thing the delegates might do in that sweltering heat. Everybody was at sea.

Ironical Note Hit.

It was ironical that in that gathering of politicians called practical, it should have been the detached, austere Proctor who should have given the strongest impression of possessing a purpose, and an instant and elevated belief in it. If this had been an event in the industrial world Proctor might have been the new boss for whom the delegates were yearning. But in the political world he was, like Wood himself, an outsider. He did not know the politicians or speak their language; he did not think their thoughts.

Since the convention included no individual strong enough to dominate the delegates, it was inevitable that the leadership should drift into the hands of that cabal whose combined affirmations could scarcely have been heard across the Senate chamber but whose negations had stirred unhappy echoes in every civilized country. There were six or eight in the group, from Lodge, the scholarly Brahim, whose stately metaphors as temporary chairman kindled no fires among those Main street delegates, to the Mormon tariff expert, Reed Smoot. Brandegee and McCormick were violent opponents of the League of Nations. Wadsworth was conspicuous for an open fight against the eighteenth amendment at a time when nonconformity was regarded as akin to sacrilige. Watson, with the fetching wave of his hair and his professional urbanity, was an Indiana politician out of a novel. Intellectually, they were sterile; effective only in opposition, but very effective there. They had fought one President to a standstill and proposed to have the next President their tool.

Philosophy in Background.

Their determination had a background of philosophy. They professed to be convinced that it was unsound policy, contrary to the intention of the fathers, to have in the White House a man markedly disposed to be independent. The Constitution intended, they said, that a group rather than an individual should be the dominant force in the Government. The President, therefore, should bear to the leaders of his party in the Senate the relation that the president of a corporation bore to its board of directors. In large matters of policy the President should follow the lead of the Senate, feel a sense of responsibility toward it and yield it deference as the ultimate source of power.

It was then no personal dislike of Wood and no distrust of his powers which had placed the senatorial group in opposition to his candidacy from the beginning. Their hostility was, in fact, a tribute to his qualities of leadership. They did not want a leader in the White House. They wanted a man they could manage; if possible one of themselves. They had dreamed of Harding, had relinquished the dream after the Ohio primaries had returned to it when Borah with his fund investigation revitalized the Harding boom and were keeping it alive artificially in order to prevent Ohio's votes from going to Wood.

Exactly where Lodge stood in the senatorial maneuvering was obscure. He had given Wood the impression that he was for him, but he had given the Massachusetts delegation the assurance that he wanted Coolidge; on the other hand he had been heard to exclaim derisively regarding Coolidge's two-family house, "Never! Massachusetts is not for him." So a bewildered scientist in search of truth might have made his own choice. If Lodge wanted Wood, he wanted him only tepidly.

"Oligarchy" Barred Wood.

It was generally known that the "Senate oligarchy" were, first and last, opposed to Wood. What they really wanted in their hearts appeared to be a cipher. A cipher, indeed, was the only adequate symbol of their leadership. Lodge's speech as temporary chairman was all denunciation. In the struggle over the plank in the platform regarding the League of Nations, Lodge relinquished his own program of reservations without a struggle and, with a dozen other representatives of that august body which was reaching for the supreme power, succumbed pitifully to the threats of Borah, Johnson and McCormick to bolt if their roaring negations were not heeded. In the frantic pursuit of a superficial harmony, principles were excess baggage.

While the senators, under the inspiration of Col. George Harvey, were playing with possible candidates, in the hotels and on the street went on the customary ballyhoo. Everywhere there was a sense of smooth, sleek little animals slipping noiselessly to and fro; politicians conferring, carrying messages, making alliances. Observers noted that the campaign for the nominations had not only entered a new phase, but had apparently ceased to bear any relationship to its previous phases. The public for whose favor the rival politicians had so hotly contended in the primaries, seemed altogether forgotten. The campaign, indeed, seemed to have ceased to be anything resembling a conflict of organized masses and had become a huge intrigue infinitely complicated and predominantly sordid.

Enthusiasm Wilts.

Enthusiasm, withered in that sultry air; faith in democratic institutions faltered. It was not only that the heat of those June days made the blood sluggish; a sense of ignoble plotting oppressed the mind. A President was being chosen—for it was clear that the Republican nomination would be equivalent to an election—and the personal qualifications of a candidate for the most powerful public office in the world appeared to be a consideration of only minor consequence.

Wood's headquarters in the Elizabethan room of the Congress Hotel were crowded from morning till night with confident supporters. With incredible fatuity, Wood's publicity bureau was still spending money like water, issuing a daily newspaper and dispensing untold quantities of liquor. If madness was a sign, the gods had indeed marked Wood's organization for destruction. At Lowden's headquarters, at Johnson's, there was less profligacy, and more noise; but bands were in the tradition. Only the dingy rooms of Senator Harding in a far corner of the Congress Hotel, were deserted. "I don't know why we're keeping the headquarters," Mrs. Harding said to a friend. "It's simply a needless expense. We haven't a chance. But Mr. Daugherty felt that since the senator had come out for the nomination, it would be the dignified thing to have headquarters here."

Wood Lead Grows.

As the balloting drew near, Wood appeared to be increasing his lead. The anti-Wood men became alarmed. Penrose, it was reported, gave John King, who was representing him at the convention, instructions that in case there were imminent danger of Wood's nomination, his, Penrose's, forces should support Lowden. This did not mean that Penrose wanted Lowden to be the nomines, but only that he intended to use Lowden as a rallying point in his determination to eliminate Wood. There was reason to believe, indeed, that Lowden's strength had been built up for no other purpose. The delegates who had been elected through Lowden's efforts and with the use of funds provided by Lowden himself were not Lowden delegates. They were common to Lowden and to whomever the Old Guard might ultimately choose to support; at the call of the Old Guard whenever it desired to use them for purposes unfriendly to the man whom they had promised to support. There were rumors, indeed, that the Old Guard was determined to discard all the candidates for whom the people had expressed their preference in the primaries. Borah once more played into the hands of the Old Guard by threatening to bolt if either of the candidates who had tried to "buy the Presidency," Wood or Lowden, were nominated. Nothing could have pleased the Old Guard more, for it gave them a pious cloak to cover their determination to nominate not a man the people wanted, but one of their own. Throughout, Borah was their kind angel.

On Friday, June 12, the Governor of Kansas, Henry J. Allen, places Wood in nomination. His speech set in motion a 40-minute ballyhoo, but it was eclipsed by the brief seconding speech of Mrs. Douglas Robinson.

Urged as Leader.

"People often say to me in these last days, 'You wish to have Leonard Wood as President because he was a friend of your brother, Theodore Roosevelt.' • • • I want Leonard Wood for President, not because he was my brother's devoted friend—although he was my brother's devoted friend, as was my brother his devoted friend; I want Leonard Wood for President not because he was his friend, but because he is his type.

"There are three kinds of men: The man who uses only words; the man who uses the brawn and blood of another man by saying, 'Go!' and the man, the kind of man we want who says, 'Come!' and I want Leonard Wood."

The words, simple, clear and vibrant, constituted that rarest phenomenon of convention oratory, a speech which changes votes.

Wood's chances had, indeed, never looked brighter. The last disharmonies in his leadership had been resolved. Hitchcock was in full charge of the convention strategy. The momentum, moreover, which had been gathering behind Wood's candidacy was increasing hour by hour. His men had won the chairmanship of the two principal committees of resolutions and credentials. Wood, wrote Mark Sullivan, was gaining not only delegates, but loyalty and prestige. "He can be defeated, but it is harder for his enemies to beat him than it is for him to win."

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—When "Debutante" is flashed on the screen some months hence, the subbilling will read "by and with Carman Barnes."

DORIS KENYON

The movie debut of Carman Barnes is no more unusual than her short career. She was the author, at the age of 15, of a novel that caused quite wide comment, and now, at 18, is virtually being starred in her first picture. And the story is one she herself has written.

It is doubtful if any one, young or old, ever began a career in Hollywood under such circumstances. Carman came here to write a scenario, intending to stay six weeks. Her residence now will be indefinite.

Carman (it's a family name and is spelled with two a's) bears a slight resemblance to Constance Bennett, although she is a less sophisticated type.

She is representative of "modern" youth of today, as Clara Bow represented "flaming youth" four years ago.

Miss Barnes is tall and blonde and hails from Tennessee. She was born in Chattanooga and later moved to Nashville. Her second book appeared last year, and she has written a fairly successful play from her first.

Doris Returning.

Doris Kenyon's return to pictures was unexpected, in view of her decision to return to the concert stage following the death of her husband, Milton Sills.

Miss Kenyon gave up concert work when she married Sills, for his health and profession demanded that he live in California.

Her return picture will be "You and I," and Lewis Stone will play opposite her. She and Stone were cofeatured in many films several years ago when both were First National players.

Of All People.

Hollywood gossip has Mary Pickford making a prison story next. While in New York on a vacation she is said to have visited police stations and jails getting "local color."

Robert Milton, the director, looks like an Irish comedian.

Charlie Chaplain arranged the musical accompaniment for his picture, "City Lights." While it was being synchronized, the expense ran as high as $3,000 a day for musicians, but he kept them doing it over again until he was satisfied with results.

Comes a pause in the evening's enjoyment known as the—"Furnace Hour"

Whether you're giving a party or just enjoying a quiet evening at home, you don't want to be bothered with a temperamental heating plant.

Whether it's shoveling coal, running up and down stairs to adjust drafts, or tinkering with a complicated mechanism, it's a waste of time which you could use to better advantage. And it's a needless waste!

All furnace tending, all work and worry about house heating, can be forever ended once you install Automatic Gas Heat.

Automatic Gas Heat adjusts itself, keeps the whole house at an even, healthful warmth and never uses fuel which isn't needed.
Gas, the modern fuel, offers to turn Winter for you into a season of cozy comfort and restful leisure.

BRYANT GAS HEATING

For steam, vapor, hot water and warm air systems in old houses and new residences, large and small.

If You Were Disappointed Last Fall

WHEN the new low rate for house heating was announced last Fall Washington home owners responded in unprecedented numbers.

So hard pressed were we at the time, that we must have unintentionally disappointed many prospective purchasers, in spite of the fact that over 1,500 heating systems have changed to gas since then.

But now our sales and installation departments are again in position to take care of all inquiries. Certain additions which have been made at our plant, and the coming of natural gas, will enable us to take on an additional 2,000 house heating installations without further delay.

If you were disappointed last Fall in not securing immediate action, there still is time to enjoy Automatic Gas Heat for the rest of this Winter.

The installation of a Bryant Gas Boiler, or a Janitrol Conversion Burner (right in your present furnace), is a matter of but a few short hours. We will keep your house warm while installation is in progress. So easily can this be done that you will scarcely be aware that anything is taking place until the new warmth and comfort begins to add its joy to living.

You can know in advance the approximate yearly cost of heating your home with gas. Just phone National 8280, the House Heating Department, and we will be glad to furnish you with a reliable estimate.

BIRTH CONTROL HELD CURE FOR SOCIAL ILLS

ceptive advice to a woman who is unfitted to bear children safely because of certain diseases.

"There I can tell her anything I please," he said, "but if she moves to any other State and I write her the same things in a letter there is danger of Uncle Sam's snoopers getting me and there's no telling what they would do to me.

"If I could tell you what the average doctor says about Uncle Sam and this law the language would be so strong the policemen would take me out of here."

Mrs. Sanger, of New York, chairman of the national committee on Federal legislation for birth control, said: "The effect of this law on our statute books is to keep alive hypocrisy and evasion and increase our disregard for laws."

The Rev. Charles Francis Potter, of New York, told the committee there had been a marked increase of champions of birth control among the

"There is no use blinking at the fact [illegible] spousnous [illegible] clergy, that [illegible] that knowledge of contraceptives is dangerous," he said, "but the remedy is not to be found in denying access to knowledge. When men and women are kept moral through fear and ignorance they are not really moral."

The bill by Senator Gillett (Republican), Massachusetts, was described by Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, of Hartford, Conn., as "the most important piece of social legislation to come before Congress at this or any other time."

Mrs. Douglas Moffatt, representing the Junior League of New York, said that organization, through its work among the lower classes of society, had decided passage of the measure was "absolutely necessary."

Dr. Sydney E. Goldstein, of the Jewish Institute of New York, challenged the contention that birth control is against morality and the Bible. Prof. Roswell H. Johnson, of Pittsburgh, said birth control already is being practiced generally among the upper classes.

The opinion that unrestricted reproduction will overpopulate the world and result in war was advised by Prof. Henry P. Fairchild, New York University sociologist, who declared that in the last century the world's population had increased from 700,000,000 to 1,700,000,000 and that this rate could not continue another 100 years without serious results. The Senate subcommittee consists of Senator Gillett, Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, and Senator Borah, of Idaho. Senator Borah was not present yesterday.

Among the guests who were at the dinner were Commissioners Luther Reichelderfer, Herbert B. Crosby, and John C. Gotwals, Judge Walter I. McCoy, Judge Robert E. Mattingly, Marshal E. C. Snyder, Gen. S. S. Richards and Frederic William Wile.

TOURISTS' SCARCITY HITS ' 'POSSUM BOY'

Ray Buracker Finds Income as Hoover Estate Gate Tender Is Cut.

MONEY STACK FALLING

Luray, Va., Feb. 13.—Winter rigors have gone a long way toward depleting the pocketbook of Ray Buracker, President Hoover's "'possum boy," on the Rapidan River. Heavy falling off in tourist travel to the Hoover estate has caused gates surrounding the place to remain rusty-hinged and unopened for a long time.

Opening and closing these gates for two years—a self-imposed duty of the "'possum boy"—has been his revenue producer. In former years tourists were liberal in giving money to the mountain lad for his kindness in opening and closing the gates leading into the Hoover grounds.

The boy's polite doffing of his tattered cap as the tourists' automobiles entered and left the grounds, proved a financial asset, also. His money grew by leaps and bounds. Finally he decided to construct a money pyramid of the tourists' contribution of pennies, nickles, dimes, quarters and half dollars. The boy's money column was finally completed, its apex crowned with pennies. The money column's foundation was made of half dollars.

The present winter with its dearth of automobiles to the Hoover grounds is bringing disintegration to the "'possum boy's" money column. The pyramid, he says, is "tottering to its fall."

Income Tax Facts

No. 13.

Of the millions of income tax returns that are filed annually the vast majority are from persons whose income consists of "compensation for personal services actually rendered." All of the various types of compensation, unless such income is specifically exempt by statute, should be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income, such as salaries, wages, fees, commissions, bonuses, tips, honorariums, prizes, awards, pensions in recognition of past services, &c. In general, compensation for personal services should be reported for taxation purposes in the year it is received or unqualifiedly made subject to demand. If the services were rendered during the year 1929, or even prior thereto, but the compensation was not received until 1930, the entire amount is taxable in the year received when the taxpayer is reporting on the cash receipts basis. Most individuals use the cash receipts basis in reporting net income.

The salaries of Federal officers and employes are subject to the income tax, except the salary of the President of the United States and Federal judges. Other items subject to tax are salaries and fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, marriages, baptisms, masses and like services; executors' fees; directors' fees; Federal jury fees; base pay of United States Army and Navy officers on duty in the United States, and prizes received in contests of various kinds.

Compensation received by employes from organizations which are themselves exempt from taxation are taxable, as, for example, the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., charitable and religious organizations, boards of trade, chambers of commerce and trade relief organizations, organized and operated for purposes other than financial gain.

WEST VIRGINIA SUM FOR PHONES IS VAST

$10,300,000 Will Be Spent Throughout State for Better Service.

BOND CLUB MEETING SET

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Gross expenditures of approximately $10,300,000 will be made by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of West Virginia on plant additions, betterments and replacements in that State during the next three years. This announcement was made yesterday following the annual meeting of the company at Charleston.

Of this amount it is estimated that $4,080,000 will be spent this year, and the company will inaugurate an expansion program providing for a net gain of 18,000 telephones in that State by the end of 1933. With these additions, there will be 135,000 telephones in use in West Virginia, and during the present year 5,500 telephones will be added to the 116,783 in service January 1, bringing the total to approximately 122,300 in service at the close of the year.

The company's construction program last year involved gross expenditures of $1,933,927. The major projects were land and buildings, $28,757; central office equipment, $179,420; station equipment on the subscribers' premises, $694,329, and exchange and toll lines, $932,355. Construction projects covered all sections of the State. At the close of 1930 the total plant investment in West Virginia was $23,450,359, an increase for the year of 2.4 per cent.

Telephone operating revenues during 1930 totaled $6,150,273, an increase of 3 per cent over the previous year. Telephone expenses, including depreciation, uncollectible, taxes, rent and miscellaneous deductions, were $5,105,772, an increase of 3.9 per cent. Net telephone revenues last year were $1,044,501. Other net income was $71,480, making total net earnings of $1,051,981 available for interest and dividends. One of the large items of expense was operating taxes, which for the year was $491,563. For the year, operating taxes required approximately 8 per cent of the gross revenues.

Directors of the company reelected included Charles A. Cabell and Thadeus S. Clark, Charleston; Charles M. Gohen, Huntington; John M. Crawford, Parkersburg, and David A. Burt, Wheeling; Lloyd B. Wilson, Philip O. Coffin and Marshal D. Sedam, Washington; Walter S. Gifford and Eugene S. Wilson, New York.

The next regular luncheon meeting of the Bond Club of Washington will be held Monday afternon at the Carlton Hotel, beginning at 12:30 o'clock. Wilfred H. Hemingway, of Hemingway & Associates, New York City, will address the club on "Financial Analyses and the Present Economic situation." He is an outstanding authority on analysis and interpretation of financial statements, and has lectured on this and kindred subjects. He is the author of "Financial Statement Interpreter," and numerous other publications of finance.

Commissioners Oppose Change in Street's Name

The District Commissioners yesterday refused to approve a bill to give the name Blair place to the Sixteenth street entrance to the District in a letter to Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee.

The measure, introduced by Senator Goldsborough, was objected to chiefly on the ground that it was indefinite and because the term "place" was used. The Commissioners added, however, that they would not favor a change in the name of any part of Sixteenth street.

Talk of Queen Helen's Wedding Officer Denied

Bucharest, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Reports published abroad that Queen Helen of Roumania planned to marry an army officer, Col. Skeletti, were vigorously denied today by persons in an authoritative position.

These persons insisted such marriage was quite out of the question and branded the rumors a "preposterous invention."

Revival in Trade Is Declared Slow

Expansion in Business Is Taking Leisurely Course, Experts Report.

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The weekly mercantile reviews report that the trade situation remains spotty and that expansion in business does not make rapid progress. Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"The trade situation as a whole remains spotty, the third successive week of mild weather in most of the West and South, while retarding trade in the Northwest, helping early sales of spring goods at the South and at some Eastern points. Some wholesalers report an increased movement of millinery and women's ready to wear, helped, no doubt, by preparations now in progress for an early Easter trade. Wholesalers' and jobbers' orders, however, remain small and conservative. In general, retail trade is, nevertheless, still running behind last year in volume, with prices considerably lower and profits small."

Dun's review tomorrow will say: "Expansion in business does not make rapid progress. Gains now may be seen from confirmation of reports that automobile output has run a little ahead of predictions; that large cement plants have begun to increase production, and that there has been a slight advance in steel output. Revisions in commodity prices continue. These again extend to some departments of the cotton goods trade, to hides and leather, to some metals, though copper is slightly firmer, while a number of declines have appeared in the prices of chemicals. These further changes are expected to be helpful."

Weekly bank clearings, $6,191,794,000, a decrease of 22.4 per cent from a year ago. Outside of New York there was a decrease of 29.1 per cent.

China's Mexican Dollar Strikes New Low Level

Shanghai, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—China's silver market today underwent the most hectic session it has experienced in years as the result of unconfirmed reports that the Nationalist government was planning to declare a moratorium on gold obligations and would seek to establish a gold standard.

The Mexican dollar, China's principal medium of exchange, plunged to a new low level of 19.96 cents gold. The market rallied late in the afternoon when the minister of finance denied the government was planning a moratorium or taking measures to adopt the gold standard.

$984,562 Will Be Given Employes by Company

Cincinnati, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Officials of the Procter & Gamble Co. today said employes of the concern all over the country tomorrow would celebrate distribution of $984,562 in profit sharing dividends. The dividend, the officers said, was the largest ever paid their employes as their share of the concern's profits. Of the amount $531,000 went to employes in the Cincinnati district.

The employes own or have subscribed for 335,599 shares of Procter & Gamble stock under the profit-sharing plan which has a present value of over $23,000,000.

Chilean Wheat Harvest Is Half Under Normal

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The Chilean wheat harvest for 1930-31 was estimated today at 6,271,765 metric quintals (about 22,360,000 bushels), which is 3,000,000 quintals (about 11,000,000 bushels) less than that of the year 1929-30.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, Feb. 13.—With a short week, on account of the holiday, commercial failures in the United States showed a reduction this week from the previous week, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. The total for the week was 534, compared with 676 last week and 566 in the corresponding week of 1930, in which a holiday also was included. Defaults with liabilities of more than $5,000 each totaled 347, against 361 a year ago.

January sales of interstate department stores were $1,296,043, an increase of 1.4 per cent over $1,278,303 for January 1930. A statement by the company said that in "view of the 20 per cent reduction in merchandise prices existing today," the figures do not represent the actual increase in volume of business done. "Profits for January 1931," the statement said, "were greater than for January 1930, which also were ahead of January 1929."

Chrysler Corporation employment is now at the highest point since March of 1930, several increases having been made since the first of the year at both the Chrysler and Dodge divisions.

Shell Eastern Petroleum Products, Inc., has increased the price of tank car gasoline 1 cent a gallon to 8 cents along the Atlantic Seaboard, meeting the advance announced recently by the Texas Corporation.

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey advanced the spot price of U. S. motor gasoline in tank cars one-half cent a gallon to 7½ cents at Atlantic Coast points, effective tomorrow.

The value of New York Stock Exchange memberships advanced $50,000 in one transaction. Arrangements were made for the sale of a seat at $275,000, against $225,000 for the previous sale.

A large gain in street and road construction activity was the high spot of the past week in engineering awards announced throughout the country, Engineering News record reports. Contracts let for all types of work in this period totaled $35,621,000, a decline of $57,866,000 from the previous week, but a slight gain over the $34,401,000 in the corresponding week of 1930.

The Central States Electric Corporation decided at a meeting of the board today to pay stock dividends on the common stock semiannually instead of quarterly as in the past. The change is for the convenience of the corporation and stockholders the company said. Inaugurating this policy, the board declared a semiannual dividend of 5 per cent in common stock on the common stock.

Phillips-Jones Corporation reports a net loss of $249,618 for the year ended December 31, 1930, against net profits of $418,798 or $3.45 a share of common in 1929.

The American Express Co. reported for 1930 net profit of $1,297,495, equal to $7.21 a share, against $2,338,646, or $14.10 a share in 1929.

Western Auto Supply Co., of Kansas City, had net profit for 1930 of approximately $747,000, equal to $3.81 a share on the common, against $532,671, of $2.72 a share on the combined Class "A" and "B" shares in 1929.

U. S. Playing Card Co. for 1930 had net profit of $1,209,907, equal to, $3.02 a share, against $2,294,761, or $5.73 a share in the previous year.

The Royal Typewriter Co. reported for 1930 net income of $1,402,905, equal to $4.24 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,766,081, or $5.59 a share in 1929, and $1,306,744, or $8.16 a share before the stock was split two for one in 1928. E. C. Faustmann, president, said the total number of units sold last year showed a gain of 2 per cent over 1928 and a decrease of only 6 per cent compared with the record year of 1929.

European Money Slumps Sharply

Threat of Higher Taxes in England Is Blamed for Declines.

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The shrinkage in the dollar value of the pound sterling and other European currencies today was the sharpest in several months. It was accompanied also by drastic declines in Chinese exchanges.

In the foreign exchange market the reaction in sterling and continental exchanges close to the lowest levels of the year was attributed to the House of Commons speech by Chancellor Snowden on the serious condition of government finances. His allusion to the necessity of sacrifices by those best able to bear them was interpreted as foreshadowing an increase in British taxation.

Sterling dropped 1-32 of a cent to $4.85 13-16. Continental rates also dipped, with the Italian lire, Belgian belgas, Dutch guilders, Swiss francs and Spanish pesetas at near the lows for the year. Chinese currencies—the Shanghai tael and Hongkong dollar—sold down to the lowest rates in history again today, due to rumors, which proved false, that the Nationalist government planned to declare a moratorium on gold obligations, and was contemplating placing its currency on a gold basis. The report brought a sharp drop in the price of silver in New York and London and there was a sympathetic drop in the exchanges.

Australian Wage Cut Is Planned by Premiers

Canberra, Australia, Feb. 13 (A.P.). The conference of premiers today adopted a three-year plan for stabilization of Australian finances. It provides a general reduction in the wages of civil employes, a tax of 84 cents for every $5 on all public loans subject to federal taxation, and immediate action to fund the floating debt.

The plan is to be referred to the banks and will be discussed again by the premiers on Feb. 25. It is understood the banks are not likely to accept it, the Commonwealth Bank already having decided not to cooperate with the governments unless drastic reductions in expenditures are made.

WE ARE GROWING OLDER.

THE average age of population in America is increasing moderately and, what is more important, it is liable to increase more rapidly in the next few years. This increase will continue until about 1950, in the opinion of Dr. Dublin, who supplies the facts for this article. Dividing the population into three age groups and comparing two years and projecting a third, he gives us the following information:

In 1850 a little more than one-half the population were under 20 years of age. In 1920 this group made up two-fifths of the population. In 1950 they will be less than one-third of the whole. In the same years the figures for the 20 to 50-year group are: 1850, 38.6 per cent; 1920, 43.9 per cent; 1950, 43.7 per cent. Over 50 years of age: 1850, 8.9 per cent; 1920, 15.4 per cent; 1950, 23.6 per cent. The ultimately stable population will be divided into: First group, 20 per cent; second group, 40 per cent; third group, 31 per cent.

The trend is due to the downward bent of the birth rate, the low death rate, the increasing proportion of the people beyond the child begetting age, and the decrease in immigration of young people from races with high birth rates. These facts, so far as essentials go, are well known to health officers, physicians, social workers and far-sighted business men. They are profoundly important, even more important than war and peace.

The health officials and physicians are beginning to think about the health of people of middle age and beyond. They are thinking about cancer, heart disease, apoplexy, high blood pressure, Bright's disease, diabetes and pneumonia. They realize that before long they can forget about measles, smallpox, typhoid fever and the summer complaints of babies.

The social workers are thinking about old people's homes, employment for old people, part time work, slow speed jobs.

The insurance companies are planning readjustments of the rates. The insurance of babies, once too hazardous for many companies, is now so safe that rates need to be readjusted.

The business man is finding that he must change his wares. The departments selling children's supplies need to be contracted. Those selling supplies for people 50 years and over must be increased. Salesmanship now adjusted to younger minds must be readjusted. The size of houses and arrangement of houses will be changed, if not already changed. The number of school seats and the size of school buildings is another field in which there will be change. The food supply will change from one devised especially for children to one that especially suits older people.

MAY BE RHEUMATIC.

Miss L. G. writes: I have severe headaches, mostly across the left side of my head. If I touch my forehead it feels very sore. Do you think this is neuralgia?

REPLY.

A headache that is accompanied by considerable tenderness when the scalp and upper neck are pressed is very apt to be rheumatic. Particularly is this true if the headache is relieved by one of the salicylates. If your headaches are rheumatic there is a fair chance that treatment for rheumatism, including some change in your habits, would cure you.

MARYLAND U. QUINTET WINS OVER VIRGINIA, 34-21

Harvard and Princeton At Peace

Undergraduates Heal Breach Existing Since 1926.

Renew Athletic Relations in All Sports Except Football.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The athletic committees of Harvard and Princeton Universities, in an official statement issued here tonight, sanctioned renewal of competition in all sports, except football, between the two institutions.

The statement, issued simultaneously at Princeton and Cambridge by Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the board of athletic control at Princeton, and William J. Bingham, head of the Harvard committee on athletics, stated that the two men had met in New York yesterday and in informal discussion had agreed to schedule games as rapidly as possible.

The statement called attention to the "complete change in undergraduate sentiment at Harvard and Princeton during the past four years."

Football Game Was Cause.

Relations were severed after a football game on November 10, 1926, which was won by Princeton, 12-0. The Harvard committee on regulation of athletic sports issued a statement in which it outlined a policy to schedule contests with all colleges "only at suitable intervals" with the exception of Yale, with which the annual game would be continued.

Princeton authorities immediately created the break insisting on being given the same status as Yale in the making up of Harvard's schedules if athletic relations between the two colleges were to continue.

Up to this year, neither college displayed any tendency to alter its stand, but a growing sentiment among the undergraduates of the two colleges favored resumption of relations and it was decided to effect a compromise of some kind.

Columbus Club Sold To Natives by Reds

Cincinnati, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The Columbus American Association Club, owned by the Cincinnati Reds, was sold today by Sidney Weil, the Reds' president, to Leland MacPhail, Columbus, and the latter's associates. Weil said the sale enabled the Columbus Senators to be owned entirely by Columbus capital.

The local National League club bought the Columbus team December 6, 1926, for purposes of training young players, but the venture was not very successful from that standpoint. Weil said the Columbus Club never proved financially profitable to the Reds, although affairs of the association entry were ably administered by Joe Carr, its president.

Cincinnati Club Sells "Farm" at Columbus

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Ownership of the Columbus American Association Baseball Club was held tonight by Leland M. MacPhail, Columbus capitalist, sportsman, real estate contractor and Western Conference football official and his associates.

MacPhail purchased the club outright from Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati National League Team, who for the last four years operated the Senators as a farm.

Weil said the Reds lost money on the Columbus proposition ever since they acquired that team in December, 1926, and he decided to sell because the venture was not profitable from the standpoint of developing players into major league talent.

Exhibition Tomorrow By Noted Mermaid

Miss Anne Benoit, of Holyoke, Mass., holder of many national and international swimming records, will give a special exhibition of her art at the Ambassador Hotel pool tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 4 o'clock. Her performance will be augmented by a series of diving and life-saving exhibitions by local tankmen.

Although Miss Benoit's records are voluminous, she is perhaps best known for her "around Manhattan" swim last August, in which she bettered by more than an hour the existing record for the 27½-mile pull.

Among her records is the breaking of the men's 5-mile mark at Coral Gables, Fla., in February, 1929; time, 3 hours and 23 minutes. She defeated Gertrude Ederle, Mlle. Godefroson and Clarabelle Barrett, all of English Channel fame, in the special 10-mile women's race subsidiary to the Wrigley marathon in August, 1928.

Better Pitching From Same Pitchers Is Hope of Browns

St. Louis Hurlers Least Effective Last Year; Goslin's Long-Distance Hitting Is Asset; Several Jobs Open.

(This is the fifth of a series of articles detailing the efforts of American League clubs to strengthen in preparation for the 1931 season.)

ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

MANAGER — William Killefer. Coach, James Austin.

PITCHERS—Blaeholder, Gray, Collins, Coffman, Kimsey, Stiles, right-handers; Stewart, Steiley, southpaws.

CATCHERS — R. Ferrell. *Crouch, *Young.

INFIELDERS — Blue, *Burns, Mellilo, *Storti, *Levey, Kress, O'Rourke, *Grimes.

OUTFIELDERS — Goslin, Schulte, Gullic, McNeely, *Jenkins, *Bettencourt, *Bennett, *Waddey.

*New men.

IN preparing for the 1931 American League season, the management of the St. Louis Browns took into consideration two facts—first, that the Brown pitching staff was the least effective of any in the circuit, and, second, that St. Louis was next to the last in batting.

"Our pitchers did not pitch as good as they were able in 1930. They will do better in '31. That is why we have not made any additions to our box crew," is the word that comes from St. Louis.

Same Corps Figured to Do Better Pitching.

The explanation is that Sam Gray got away to the bad and was in poor health most of the season, Blaeholder took time to hit a winning streak because he did not report until after the season was well under way and that Coffman was unlucky. Stiles is expected to show marked improvement after his year of relief work.

But, while standing pat on pitchers, St. Louis has put through radical infield replacements and added to the hitting strength of the outfield in addition to reorganizing the back-stopping department.

Rick Ferrell is the only catcher of the 1930 staff retained. To aid him, Russell Young, veteran American Association receiver, and Jack Crouch, of Wichita Falls, have been signed. Young has the reputation of being a very competent man behind the bat.

Three infielders, First Baseman Burns, Second Baseman Storti and Shortstop Levey were brought in from Wichita Falls, where they had a sensational season, and Grimes was recalled from Milwaukee. First Baseman Blue, Second Baseman Mellilo, Shortstop Kress and Third Baseman O'Rourke are the holdovers, although it has been rumored that Blue may figure in a trade.

Goslin Adds Long-Distance Punch to Team.

Burns and Storti will add batting power, while Levey is such a capable shortfielder that Manager Killefer will be able to move Kress to third base. Mellilo, however, is expected to continue as a regular because of his brilliant fielding, courage and ability to steady young infielders.

Long-distance hitting strength was given the Browns when they acquired Leon Goslin from Washington, while Bettencourt, who led the Texas League in driving in runs, and Jenkins, who had a splendid batting record in the American Association, are expected to add more power at the bat. Frank Waddey, who batted .345 in the Southern Association, also must be considered as an outfield candidate.

Phelan, Famous in Baseball For Never Using Glove, Dies

Veteran Passes Away in 76th Year; Played With Kelly, Latham, Comiskey, Ewing, Others; Claimed Glove a Handicap.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—James D. "Dick" Phelan, 76, a veteran of the baseball diamond who played before the days of gloves, died at his home here this afternoon after a long illness.

Phelan played baseball when Mike Kelly, Arlie Latham, Charlie Comiskey, Johnnny Ward, Bid McPhee, Cub Stricker, Harry Stovey, Buck Ewing, and a host of others were in their hey day.

Played Bare-Handed in Preference to Glove.

He was a second baseman and never wore a glove even long after gloves were introduced, claiming he couldn't handle the ball as well with a glove as with his bare hands.

He played with Buffalo in the old National League, with Baltimore in the old Union Association, with Memphis, Chattanooga, and New Orleans in the old Southern League, with Des Moines in the old Western League, Seattle in the old Pacific Northwest League, and Scranton in the old Pennsylvania League.

It has been said Phelan never was ordered out of a game by an umpire. He was born December 10, 1854, in Towanda, Pa., and had been confined to his home the past year or more.

He was a member of the Association of Professional Ball Players of America, of which Frank Isbell, the old Kansas City and Chicago first baseman is president, and Russ Hall, former shortstop of the Dallas, Tex., League club, is secretary. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

Bliss 7th Straight Victim of Bennies

Benjamin Franklin scored its seventh straight victory in the Washington College Conference Basket Ball League last night at Tech High Gym by taking an easy 35-21 victory over Bliss. The Bennies kept clean their conference slate and by reason of the win have elevated themselves to a berth where it will be almost impossible for the remaining teams of the loop to draw even near.

The Bennies were never particularly bothered, garnering an early and never relinquished lead. The count at the half stood 12-7.

Sherman, with 9 points, contributed the lion's share of the individual scoring performances, closely followed by Lester Singman, whose total was 8.

Harvey Again Beaten by Dundee

Decision Is Booed by Crowd of 11,500 in Garden.

Sireci Ends Dix in 6th Round; Herrera Wins.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, N. Y., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Vince Dundee, Baltimore Italian middleweight, won his second victory over Len Harvey, British champion, by decision in twelve rounds tonight before a crowd of 11,500. The crowd booed the verdict which Harvey seeme dto have won rather easily.

Dundee had a 4-pound pull in the weights in the twelve-round bout. At weighing-in ceremonies in the afternoon, Dundee weighed 159 pounds, Harvey 155.

Vincent Sireci, stiff-punching New York welterweight, knocked out Madison Dix, of San Francisco, in the sixth round of the first 10-rounder. Dix had a nice lead until Sireci crossed one blazing right to the chin that dropped the Californian cleanly for the full count.

Tony Herrera, a Mexican lightweight from El Paso, Tex., scored a decisive victory over Solly Schwartz, clever red-headed Englishman, in a 10 round semifinal, easily winning the decision after flooring Solly for a count of six with a right to the chin in the sixxth.

Fan Sues for $25,000, Blaming Cubs for Fall

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—One of Hack Wilson's home runs, 1930 model, may cost the Cubs just $25,000.

William Vipond, a structural ironworker, today filed suit in the Superior Court asking that sum from the Cubs for injuries he suffered last June when he was pushed from the top deck of the grand stand during the excitement caused by one of Wilson's circuit smashes. Vipond claimed the park was so packed that he was forced to lean against the top rail of the upper deck of the grand stand.

When the crowd jumped up to cheer the Wilson specialty, he said, he was pushed over the railing and fell 15 feet to the cement floor of the lower deck, suffering fractures of the right arm and leg.

Unknown Cager Halts Wooden in First Tilt

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Ray Altenhof, Michigan sophomore, stepped into the circle of great basket ball guards in his first Western Conference game.

He stopped Johnny Wooden, Purdue's bouncing ace, and the Boilermaker star saw defeat for the first time in Big Ten company.

Wooden and Altenhof were on the same floor when Purdue and Michigan opened the conference race. Wooden had a year's record behind him with a mark of 100 points in ten games.

The Wolverine was an unknown sophomore who had made four baskets and three fouls in four preseason games.

When the pair left the floor, Altenhof was the high scorer, four field goals and three fouls. Wooden had netted three from scrimmage, all in the first half.

Altenhof is from Gary, Ind., where Michigan's coach, George Veenker, tutored before the Wolverines annexed him.

IN India alone 20,000 people die every year from cobra poison, yet this same poison is harmless when swallowed. It is when the poison is injected directly into the blood that it is so dangerous, for cobra venom acts directly on the heart and the nervous system, and produces death in a short time. This poison works much faster than that of the rattler, moccasin, and copperhead, for the venom of these snakes produces its fatal results by destroying the blood corpuscles. In either case one of the best things to do first of all when bitten by a poisonous snake is to suck the poison from the wound.

The first real music that came into the world was produced by birds, and man is the birds' only rival today. Crickets and frogs are said to sing, but in reality they do not.

GEHRIG SIGNS ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

Star Believed to Have Accepted Old Figure of $25,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees announced today that Lou Gehrig, the most important holdout on the club, had come to terms for the baseball season of 1931.

The Yanks never discuss with the press the terms of their agreements with the athletes, but inside information is that Gehrig, despite his great season last year, signed a contract for exactly the same terms as covered his labors during the past two seasons. He has just completed a contract which brought him $25,000 annually. The new document is for only one year.

Gehrig, when he received his contract from the Yankees about a month ago, demanded $30,000 a year and a two-year agreement.

Gehrig Had 'Best Year in 1930.

He turned in the best play of his career last season, finishing with a clouting average of .379, only 2 points behind the American League batting champion, Al Simmons, of the Athletics. He led the league with 174 runs driven in.

On the basis of this showing it was generally believed the young buster deserved a raise. He capitulated two days ago, however, and signed the one-year renewal of the same terms.

Only five men on the Yankee's roster have failed to autograph agreements for the coming campaign. The list was announced as Herb Pennock, the limber but ancient southpaw, and Henry Johnson, a pair of standout pitchers; Lyn Lary, the young regular shortstop; Sam Byrd, one of the more or less regular outfielders, and a rookie pitcher recently annexed from Jersey City, Johnny Allen.

SHEA ACCEPTS BOUT.

New York Handicap Picks Entire Card For Post Race Fans

Star Believed to Have Accepted Old Figure of $25,000.

FOLLOWERS of New York Handicap's selections at the Grounds, as published in The Washington Post, certainly enjoyed a field day yesterday when he picked every one of the seven winners on the card. In the past, others have duplicated this, but usually scratches have figured, thus moving up the second or third choice.

New York Handicap named every horse which won as his first choice, none was scratched, and all finished in front. His longest shots were Anchor Light in the first race paying $9.90, and Copper, in the third, paying $11.20. His other winners were: Second race, Protheus, $5.40; Fourth race, Bargello, $6.90; fifth race Rocket Glare, $4.20; sixth race, Hy Schneider, $7.50; and seventh race, Bob Rogers, $5.50.

New York Handicap's selections appear daily in The Post and are one of its racing features.

No Major Changes In Grid Code Expected

Absecon, N. J., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Members of the national football rules committee began their annual deliberations on the playing code at the Sea View Golf Club here tonight, with no major changes in view.

Announcement of the committee's decisions will not be made until Monday, Chairman E. K. Hall said tonight.

The three-day discussion will be devoted principally to ironing out any difficulties in interpretation that cropped up during the past season, Hall declared.

Protege of Joe Cronin Signed by Nationals

Word was received last night from Clark Griffith, Washington Club president, who is vacationing at the club's Biloxi training camp, to the effect that he had signed a protege of Shortstop Joe Cronin to a Nat contract.

Spitz received 21 votes; Ray Conger, Illinois A. C., 17; Russell Chapman, Bates College, 14; Harold Manning, Wichita, Kans., 2.

Cubs' Batterymen Leave for Camp, Proving Another Season Is Near

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Seven pitchers, a pair of catchers, Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis, two coaches and a trainer will comprise the first group westward movement of the Cubs tomorrow at 12:30 p. m.

Nine others, including Manager Rogers Hornsby, were unable to restrain their desires to start training for the 1931 National League championship season, and already are on the Coast.

Tomorrow's band bound for Catalina Island, Calif., will include Pitchers Guy Gush, Jess Petty, Jake May, Le Roy Hermann, Richard Montague, Lester Sweetland and Bob Smith; Catchers Gabby Hartnett and Zack Taylor; Coaches Bay Schalk and Charlie O'Leary and Trainer Any Lotshaw.

Along with Hornsby, Pat Malone, Fred Blake, Charlie Root, Bud Teachout, Bob Osborn and George Bell, all pitchers; Catcher Earl Grace and Outfielder Bill Campbell, are on the Coast awaiting the arrival of their mates. Pitcher Ed Baecht copped a sneak on the rest of the early squad and headed West yesterday.

AMERICAN U. FIVE BOWS, 50 TO 37

Davis and Elkins in 15th Straight Triumph.

Special to The Washington Post.

ELKINS, W. Va., Feb. 13.—American University played fine ball here tonight against Davis and Elkins College, but the local five copped its fifteenth victory, 50 to 37.

The invaders from the Capital City felt the loss, for about fifteen minutes, of their red-topped center, Sells, who seemed the kingpin of their offense and got the tap at the middle ring while he wa sin the fray.

The score at half time was 29 to 14, and the tilt was a thriller from tsart to finish. The visitors scored first with a double-decker, but this was the only time they led. One time, middle way of the final half, they drew within six points, but the Scarlet Hurricane pulled away.

Peters Leads Scorers.

Peters, rangy Senator center, was leading scorer for the winners with eleven field goals and six fouls, while Heavener tallied points. The game was fast all the way and cleanly played, the fans being on their feet several times when Colison, visiting guard, shot four field goals from far back in the court. Olsen got three field goals and as many fouls for American.

Tomorrow the Washington players close their three-game trip, playing Salem College.

Old Line Five Coasts to Victory

Cavaliers' Trail After Holding Small Lead Near Start.

Result Avenges Only Conference Defeat of Maryland.

MARYLAND'S ardent fan following—1,500 strong and in good voice—visited Ritchie Gym last night seeking basket ball thrills for the third time this week. Maryland tried hard to reward them, but found that virtually impossible, for the opposition supplied by Virginia was lacking both in quality and color.

The score of this vapid affair was 34 to 21 in favor of Maryland and does not reveal fully just how much superior Maryland really was. In fact, the ease with which the Terrapins won makes one wonder how they managed to drop a 34-31 decision to the Virginians at Charlottesville about two weeks ago. In addition to revenging themselves, the Terps hung up their eighth Southern Conference victory of the season.

Virginia, using the much-talked-of Meanwell system—a system invented by the veteran Wisconsin tutor of that name—was never in the running after the first five minutes. The Cavaliers' deliberate, complex attack of "set" plays netted only seven field goals, most of which were more the result of individual play rather than of team work.

Maryland Gains Lead In First Quarter.

Thomas' dribble-in shot and Hudson's flip from the side sent Virginia into a 4-to-0 lead at the start, but Maryland soon opened its gib game and held command before seven minutes had passed. It seemed ridiculously simple the way the Terps worked the block play to free a man for an easy shot under the basket. And they kept it up until Coach Shipley relieved them with a flock of subs late in the game.

Virginia got exactly three field goals in the first half, while Maryland sank eight, effectiveness at the foul stripe enabling the Cavaliers to remain in calling distance. The score at intermission was 19 to 12.

In the second half, after considerable loose play, Maryland speeded into high and had a 10-point lead with the session half finished. Before the regulars went out Virginia was training by 32-17.

Terps' Passing Leads To Nine Goals.

No individual of the Terrapin regular array appeared outstanding. They all seemed to know the meaning of team work. Nine of the Terp goals resulted from passes near the basket.

Ed Ronkin's passing from his position on the foul stripe and Bosey Berger's shot from dead center court were contributions that probably impressed the audience the most. Lem Mayo was high scorer for Virginia with three field goals.

STAR FIELD OF 50 PINMEN AWAIT POTOMAC STAKES

Clarke Seeks To Keep Title At Rosslyn

District, Maryland, Virginia Stars in Big Field.

Doubles Also Listed; Five-Game Block Decides Title.

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

ASTOR H. CLARKE, who achieved local bowling prominence almost overnight, by virtue of his brilliant triumph in the recent Howard Campbell Duckpin Sweepstakes will be the defending champion when the Potomac Sweepstakes gets under way tonight at the Rosslyn Alleys. Clarke captured the first Potomac stakes last year with a 1,197 total for 10 games. A doubles sweepstakes is also to be staged.

Several radical departures in the conduct of the 1931 stakes have been made by George Clark, manager of the Rosslyn Alleys, who is handling all arrangements. Instead of being limited exclusively to duckpinners from Fairfax and Arlington counties, the scope of the stakes has been broadened to include all entries, irrespective of residence. Five games will be rolled this year instead of the ten games which were bowled in the 1930 sweepstakes.

Event Draws Galaxy Of Stars.

More than 50 of the outstanding rollers in Washington, Virginia and Maryland, constituting one of the finest fields ever assembled for a local duckpin event, are expected to be on hand to oppose Clarke in his quest for another major sweepstakes title.

Manager Clark already has received the entries of four doubles teams from Richmond, together with five entries in the singles. Baltimore also will be represented by several crack doubles teams and a half-dozen participants in the singles. Washington, of course, will furnish most of the rollers, a majority of the foremost pinmen in the city having signified their intention of entering the stakes.

A feature of the stakes will be a special doubles encounter between George Lang, fourth ranking bowler of the United States, and Ed Blakeney, of Baltimore, and Joe Harrison and Astor H. Clarke, of Washington.

The singles events will be rolled off at 7 o'clock, and the doubles about 10 o'clock. The entranc fee for the former is $5 and for the latter, $10. Prizes will be awarded for the first three places in both singles and doubles.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WITH the track in fast condition and ideal weather prevailing at Hialeah Park, a large attendance is expected to witness the week-end card. Racing Secretary Wallace has arranged a well-balanced supporting program to the Jockey Club Handicap, feature attraction, to be run as the fifth event.

A field of fourteen of the leading routers will face the barrier in the feature number for the $3,000 added value of the purse. SIDNEY GRANT, a courageous colt in the A. Bartelstein stable, has displayed staying qualities over a route. Nicely weighted with 119 pounds, he is expected to account for the major portion of the purse. STARS AND BARS, from the Greentree string, has trained briskly, and his second to Peto recently, in which he forced the latter to lower the mile and 70 yard record, attests his fitness. SILVERDALE successfully carried an impost of 125 pounds in his last start over the mile oval, but an assignment of 122 pounds and the gruelling route may stop the McLean racer today. However, the son of The Porter should last to gain the minor award.

FIRST RACE—BOGAN has shown the most consistent form, and figures to outfoot this band of platers. ROYAL TREE, a surprise winner last start, may prove troublesome in this company. BRUNO prefers a heavy track, but should last to take the show honors.

SECOND RACE—DON RED, a clever double winner at this meeting, appears a standout in this heat. SUN PLEASURE is well bred and should finish in the runner-up position. CRAIGCO turned in a victory last outing against a fair field and is favored for the short end of the purse.

THIRD RACE—WAVE TOP holds the edge in this event and should lead from the drop of the flag. STUPENDOUS has raced consistently and is given the place call. Monnie is expected to hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE—PENNANT LASS, a highly regarded mare, has shown speed in sprint races and, favored by the conditions, is selected to beat this field. ANGRY showed a return to his winning form last outing. The Whitney gelding is picking up four pounds off that effort and is capable of extending the top one. SANDY FORD has not started since the fall and may need this race. The Shea entrant appears best of the others, however, and is given the show call.

SIXTH RACE—BATTY, from the A. Ketchell Stable, appears best of this band of platers. LADY EBONY showed a clever victory last start and should force the pace. BLUE LAW has disappointed in recent tests but is favored for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—MARY DALE was poorly ridden last start and with better handling figures to take the measure of this field. WISE CRACK, from De Steffano barn, is at her best and may surprise with a duplicate of her last winning effort. DAIL has displayed speed in recent races and figures to finish in the money.

Bargello, Idle 2 Years, Wins at Fair Grounds

New Orleans, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Showing a flash of his old time form, C. V. Whitney's Bargello returned to the races after an absence of nearly two years today and easily won the Don Juan purse at the fair grounds.

The 5-year-old son of Bunting won his last race at Jamaica May 4, 1929, by four lengths. His decision today over P. O'Keefe's Scone, the favorite, was by a like distance while Miss Blanche Watson's Negodale finished third.

Running his usual kind of a race, Bargello broke in front and stayed there for the entire journey, covering the six furlongs in 1:13 3-5. Despite his absence from racing, the Whitney colt was the second choice in the mutuels, paying $6.90 for $2.

44-TO-1 SHOT WINS AT MIAMI

Dee John Gets Head Verdict Over Favorite in Final.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—It was not until the final race that long shot backers were rewarded here today. Then they cashed in to the extent of $96.60 for every $2 invested on the chances of Dee John. The latter defeated Talented Prince, the favorite, by a head, with Balthasar third.

There was a lot of rough riding in the final sixteenth, when Dee John took the lead. He swerved over to the inside, forcing Corbett, on Ronald Grey, to take up abruptly. Ronald Grey never recovered, finishing fifth.

Gracious Gift Victor In Feature.

Gracious Gift, the 7-year-old sprinter belonging to the May Rose Stable, showed one of the best races of his career to win the fourth event, a 6-furlong test, from some shifty platers, in the feature.

The veteran runner led Guide right to the pagoda pole with two lengths to spare in the good time of 1:12. Knight Commander lost the place by a nose. Gracious Gift and Knight Commander raced like a team until the middle of the bend, where the favorite began to draw away.

J. E. Gaffney's Dove made it four straight victories when she landed the baby race, second of the card, over the Nursery course. Chinkee was second and Siberia third. Dove got away flying and never left the result in doubt, leading all the way to win by two lenghts and to pay $2.90.

NAVY BOXERS FACE PENN TONIGHT

Webb Shifts Line-Up; Fitzgerald-Shadel Bout Awaited.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 13.—Four new faces will appear in the line-up of the Naval Academy Boxing Team which will tomorrow clash with University of Pennsylvania mittmen. The Middies made their debut last week and won decisively from M. I. T., losing only the bantamweight encounter.

Coach Spike Webb has never seen his pupils bow in a dual meet. The 1931 team promises to be his best in years, according to Webb, but the line-up which fought last week has not won its spurs and four newcomers will swap blows with the Quakers.

Penn Blanked by Syracuse.

Penn is expected to prove an easy opponent, having lost to Syracuse, 7 to 0, but even so, one interesting bout is anticipated. Capt. Shadel, Penn captain and featherweight, will clash with Fitzgerald, intercollegiate champion of 1929. Fitzgerald was beaten by Shadel last season and the battle should be closely contested this year.

Fitzgerald did not appear in the initial match of the season due to late arrival to form, but he will likely get the assignment in future bouts. Capt. Wallace, lightweight, and Norman Hall, welter and intercollegiate title holder, are the only two who fought a week ago who are slated to don mitts. Crinkley, the heavyweight, won last week by forfeit.

Wright will replace Dolan in the bantamweight class. Davis, a football back, will supplant Andrews, a middleweight, while Crane, a crack football end of two seasons ago, will replace Johnson as light-heavyweight.

Landis Denies Rumor Of His Resignation

Belleair, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Rumors that he is considering resigning as commissioner of baseball because of his health and "disgust" with several phases of the game, were branded as erroneous today by Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

"This report comes out about every six months," he said, "and I have not yet commenced to deny anything."

Landis then strode to the clubhouse with sprightly step to begin his daily round of golf.

Since his arrival here several weeks ago for a vacation, the commissioner has been playing from 18 to 27 holes of golf daily.

ALS SEXTET COPS.

Als Athletic Club Basket Ball Sextet experienced little difficulty last night at Wilson Normal Gym in defeating the Towson (Md.) Girls, A. A. U. stars, by the score of 28 to 17 in a game marked by the fine shooting of Miss Wilner, or the winners.

The local girls gained the lead shortly before the half and never relinquished it.

MD. AVE. BAPTISTS LOSE.

After holding their hosts to a 11-to-9 score at the half, the Maryland Avenue Baptist cagers went to pieces in the second half and were defeated by the Company F Reserves, 27 to 11, last night at the Hyattsville Armory. The Baptists were handicapped severely by the absence of Tom Peck, star forward, who was out with an injured ankle.

Constinett, with seven field goals, led the attack of the victors and carried off high-scoring honors. Dewey Moore stood out for Maryland Avenue.

STOCKS UNEVENLY LOWER IN CLOSING

Petroleum Shares Spurt in Brief Rally Following Import Report.

FAVORITES ARE SLUGGISH

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The stock market lost its temperature over the holiday and settled back today into a more prosiac existence.

Although sponsors of the advance endeavored to keep things moving by means of flare-ups in the oils and coppers, they found the resistance pronounced elsewhere and prices closed irregularly lower, with the volume of trading greatly reduced. Many so-called pivotal industrials and specialties were off a point net. The colorful specialties were somewhat mixed, but many recent favorites lost their buoyancy. The turnover of 2,700,000 shares was 2,000,000 under Wednesday's.

The rally in petroleum stocks was good while it lasted. Explanations of the 1 to 2 points gains in active issues, including Standards of New Jersey and California, Sinclair, Texas Corporation and others centered around the Washington proposals to restrict imports, but the move seemed traceable to professional traders who were seeking a vehicle for further bullish excursions, and the group reacted from the top when the rest of the market slipped in the late trading. The coppers, too, enjoyed a brief popularity, closing well under their best quotations.

U. S. Steel Declines.

U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Telephone and New York Central refused to be enticed into important extensions of the week's advances and finished 1 to 1½ lower. Their sluggishness made it difficult to do much with other industrials and utilities and encouraged profit-taking. Bethlehem Steel, Worthington Pump, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, National Biscuit, North American and Consolidated Gas lost about a point.

Eastman Kodak sagged 2½, Allied Chemical and Union Pacific 3¼ and Auburn Auto 5. Shorts in Westinghouse got pinched, for the stock was bid up 4 points, closing with a gain of 3. Timken, Industrial Rayon and American Tobacco "B" were also strong.

Bonds were dull and irregular. Governments turned soggy, apparently because of a feeling in banking circles that the plan for increasing the loan value of veterans' certificates would necessitate some Treasury financing, even though a large bond issue would not be required.

The sudden weakness of sterling exchange, which broke 11-32 for cables, marked a complete reversal of the recent trend. The break was attributed largely to Chancellor Snowden's statement on the position of British finances. The situation in England now implies a flow of funds into American securities, whereas by the last fortnight money has been going from this country to London, where short-term rates have been firming.

Business Expansion Is Slow.

The rise in Federal reserve brokers' loans here was smaller than had seemed probable in view of the vigorous buying on the Stock Exchange during the past week. A gain of $33,000,000—the second upturn in nineteen weeks—was taken to indicate the part played by short covering in the rally, although it also reflected, of course, an expansion of speculative borrowing.

Weekly trade reviews reported along familiar lines. Dun's said expansion in business was not making rapid progress. "Many firms dealing in necessities," it said, "note increased demand for their products, but this is not enough to be characterized as general." The survey enumerated expansion of automobile production, of cement plant activity and of steel mill output as among the favorable signs. Bradstreet's found "some gains in various sections," and an improved general tone as the results of stronger security markets.

Wheat was easy, closing from a small fraction to 1½ cents lower, influenced by beneficial rains in the Southwest and a poor export demand. Corn weakened about a cent and a half. Early strength in cotton in response to settlement of the Lancashire labor dispute gave way to irregularity, and futures closed 2 points lower to 2 higher.

Reaction was the rule among the foreign currencies. Both the Spanish peseta and the Dutch guilder went to new 1931 lows, while Shanghai slumped in sympathy with the renewed softness of silver, which lost all of the gain made earlier in the week.

PROPOSALS

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., January 20, 1931.—Sealed bids, subject to the conditions contained herein, will be received until 2 o'clock p. m., (E. S. T.), February 25, 1931, and then publicly opened, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing all work for Unit IV of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, Virginia. Separate copies are not required. Unit IV begins on Columbia Island in the Potomac River, at a point approximately 1,200 feet south of the center line of the Arlington Memorial Bridge, and extends to the entrance gates at Mount Vernon. It is located partly in the District of Columbia, partly in Alexandria, Virginia, and partly in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia. Unit IV is approximately 15,361 miles long and consists of paving the highway and incidental construction as scheduled hereinafter. The work to be done under this unit has been divided into two sections. Separate bids will be received for the work embraced in either section. Bidders if they so desire may submit bids both for the work divided into sections, and for the whole, in which event the amount of the guarantee required with the bid will be not less than 20 per cent of the largest total for the unit. The right is reserved to let the work as a single contract or to award separate contracts for the work embraced in each section, to reject any bid, or all bids, as it may deem best for the interest of the Government. The bids will be opened in the Office of the Chief, Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Information for bidders, together with forms and questionaires, may be obtained in the office of the Bureau of Public Roads, Willard Building, Washington, D. C. Each bidder must submit with his bid, or previously an attested statement, on the prescribed forms, of the business and technical organization of the bidder, available for the contemplated work, including financial resources and highway construction experience, compared with the project bid upon. The United States reserves the right to reject any bid in which the facts as to business and technical organization, financial resources or construction experience, compared with the project bid upon, do not fully such rejection. Bidders must submit with their bids a plan and equipment questionnaire showing in complete detail the proposed manner of handling the contract, the organization of forces, the equipment and methods to be employed, the order of work and other pertinent information. Section 1 of Unit IV consists of paving the highway from the terminus on Columbia Island to Station 404, a distance of approximately 7.567 miles, together with the incidental construction required. Station 404 is approximately 877 feet south of the Memorial Circle. . . . and the Telephone does the rest —

Every household has a lot of purchases to make that have been put off just because they weren't thought of at the right minute. Vita-Minutes reminders get action.

Merchants sell more things to you by reminding you than by telling you. That's true all the way from tooth-paste to electric ironers; because while the tooth-paste purchase may have been neglected because it slipped your mind, the other waits a decision—and that decision will surely be made if you are reminded often enough to "keep it on your mind."

But there are certain times when reminders are most effective. Salesmen know it—and no good salesman would try to remind you of his goods, and get your attention, while you were in the midst of a bridge game, say, or busy with something you wanted to finish. He'd rather catch you while you're in a receptive mood; and when you are fresh and rested; and when a decision made would stick.

Well, the salesman isn't apt to get to you at the one best time of day to fulfill those conditions—because that would be early morning, when neither you nor anybody else is receiving salesmen. But you see the advertisements in the morning Post, all right; and the merchant knows it.

Those minutes of the morning hours have a something that other minutes of the day don't have. You're fresh and rested, yes; and partly on that account your mind has a sparkle, a willingness to consider questions and make decisions, which isn't there at all when once you've gotten into the day's routine. That difference between early-morning minutes and other minutes can be indicated by saying that morning minutes are Vita-Minutes —vitalized by a night's sleep, and the way they look forward into a day instead of back at one.

So Vita-Minutes reminders have a way of getting a thing done the same day —a way that merchants appreciate. It's quite possible that there are, this morning, people who have been forgetting the tooth-paste supply, or just putting off having the ironer sent out for trial, who will be telephoning about it in the next few minutes—reminded by an ad in the paper you're reading.

One reason why The Post is such a powerful and valued merchandising medium is that it is delivered into welcoming homes during the Vita-Minutes of every morning. Given the right sort of reminder in a Post ad—and the telephone does the rest.
